BOLD COUP IS HUNTED AT IN GERMAN NEWS

(By Associated Press.)

Hints have come from Germany within the last few days that the military caste there would not be adverse to bringing about a military situation within the former empire that would embarrass the allies in putting the peace treaty into effect, and it seems not improbable that the move made by the ex-crown prince is connected with some such plan.

The former crown prince made his way into Holland shortly after the signing of the armistice last November and was interned there by the Dutch government, taking up his residence on the island of Werling.

Two days before the armistice was signed a decree issued by the German imperial chancellor, Prince Max of Baden, announcing a decision of the former German emperor to abdicate, stated:

"The imperial chancellor will remain in office until the questions connected with the abdication of the emperor, the renouncing by the crown prince of the throne of the German empire and of Prussia, and the setting up of the regency, have been settled."

This generally was accepted as an official announcement of the crown prince's intention to renounce his rights to the succession.

Later, however, the crown prince denied any such intention in an official statement given to the Associated Press correspondent December 30, 1918. At that time the crown prince said:

"I have not renounced anything and I have not signed any documents whatever."

"However," he continued, "should the German government decide to form a republic similar to the United States or France, I should be perfectly content to return to Germany as a simple citizen, ready to do anything to assist my country."

Notwithstanding this categorical statement, the semi-official Wolff Bureau of Berlin three days later issued what was said to be the exact text of the crown prince's renunciation of his rights to the throne.

As regards the Associated Press interview mentioned above, the crown prince is quoted as having said in an autographed letter from the ex-crown prince, in which the latter states that in this interview he was quoted correctly in every particular.

"TIPPERY" NOT APPROVED FOR CHURCH CHIMES

LONDON, June 26.—Despite suggestions by the local press, "Tipperary," the famous British song, will not be played on the chimes of the famous Wellsingborough church to celebrate the signing of the peace treaty.

"Why not also a fox-trot," wrote the vicar of Wellsingborough, in indignantly rejecting the suggestion, "I hasten to assure all and sundry that whilst I am vicar of Wellsingborough, it is a long way to Tipperary will never be played on the bells of the house of God."

Austrian Generals' Services Refused

BERLIN, June 26.—Generals Tschinn-Franke, Aulenberg, Reichen and Dantari, four well-known generals of the former Austro-Hungarian army, have offered their services to the Czech-Slovak government. The offer has been refused.

U. S. Halts Dredging of Channel Albers Bros. Contract Is Held Up

Interference by Uncle Sam today stopped the city dredging of the channel off the Albers wharf, precipitating an argument in the city council, and disclosed the fact that Commissioner Fred Soderberg and City Harbor Engineer K. S. Heck had gone ahead on a "gentleman's agreement" to do the dredging before obtaining a permit from the war department.

The order to stop the dredging came in a letter addressed to the mayor and signed by Colonel W. H. Heuer, engineer in charge of rivers and harbors for this district. It informed the mayor that no permit had been obtained from the government to do the work, and that furthermore spoils from the dredging were being dumped into a navigable channel off the Key Route basin in the water.

Commissioner Fred Soderberg and Harbor Engineer Heck said that the matter had been taken up with Colonel Heuer before the work, which has been contracted for, with Albers Bros. was started, that Heuer had said then an application for a permit would be made, and that if the work were quietly done and the government did not know it officially no one would be the worse.

SODERBERG EXPLAINS.

Since then, Soderberg said, apparently a "signal" had been made to the government office, and he mentioned that "My clerk forgot to notify me of certain of the things in connection with this." He referred, he explained, to Ralph York, who recently was suspended from duty, and through whose suspension a lively political fight has started.

"The Albers contract has to be fulfilled," said Heck, and he was notified that a big ship was on its way and would want to dock at the Albers wharf.

"I saw Colonel Heuer," said that the year department would probably not grant the permit, and after some conversation, I received the impression that as the work would not harm anyone and would not interfere with navigation, that if we happened to forget the formality and no one made any official report on it, the government would not worry about it. So we got the piling in and the wires strung and quietly went ahead."

WORK ORDER STOPPED.

The work was ordered stopped at once, and arrangements will be made for a pipe line to bring the dredged material ashore and then the exact application for a permit to dredge the Albers channel. The work was contracted to be done two years ago, and the Albers Company has demanded that it be finished as soon as possible, as the present channel is not deep enough to accommodate large ships, necessitating heavy expenditures for barging.

The second three-up in the council meeting occurred when Soderberg produced a set of rules, which he proposed should replace the present rules of order used by the council, and which he held were obsolete.

"These new rules about the council provision that members of the council must stand up to address the chair," he said, "and make some few other changes, I propose that the council look them over and will call for a vote tomorrow."

"What's the hurry?" asked Mayor Davis, who remarked that he "smelled a joker" in the proposition.

"There is no joke," said Soderberg; "that's why I suggest that we vote tomorrow."

DELAIS OF WEEK ON VOTE.

"Well, we've gotten along for years on the old rules and I won't have time to vote tomorrow," said Davis. "We'll just stay there over until next week."

The rules set forth in addition to amending the provision that the council members stand up to address the chair, that the mayor shall have the right to impose a fine of $40 on a councilman who indulges in a disrespectful or too vigorous denunciation of his fellow councilmen at a meeting.

"I don't know just what's in this, but I have a suspicion that there's something there," said the mayor. "I smell a rat and I want time to look over these things. I guess the new council can handle the matter all right.

"There is no joke," said Soderberg. "There are just a few amendments of obsolete rules. The mayor is unduly nervous; he smells a rat in anything he does not understand. However, there's no hurry."

The rules were indefinitely laid over.

Ralph York learned what had transpired in the council, and he denied that he had said anything to Colonel Heuer about the dredging. He had no idea, he said, as to what precipitated action of the part of Colonel Heuer, unless it be that the war department representative had sent for himself what was being done.

FOE MUST PAY FOR SHIPS SUNK

command of these parties of the German naval forces has alleged that he acted in the belief that the armistice expired on June 21 at midnight, and consequently, in his opinion, the destruction of the ships was no violation of its terms.

"In law, Germany, by signing the terms of Article 23, set out above, entered into an undertaking that she ships handed over by her should remain in the ports indicated by the allied and associated powers and that care and maintenance parties should be left on board with such instructions and under such orders as would insure that the armistice should be observed."

"The sinking of these ships instead of their preservation, as had been provided for, and in breach of the undertaking embodied in article 31 of the armistice against all acts of destruction constituted at once a violation of the armistice, the destruction of the pledge handed over and in act of gross bad faith toward the allied and associated powers."

"The admiral in command of the care and maintenance parties belonging to the German naval forces has, while recognizing that the act was a breach of the armistice, attempted to justify it by alleging his belief that the armistice had come to an end."

ALLEGED JUSTIFICATION NOT WELL FOUNDED.

"This alleged justification is not well founded, as under the communication addressed to the German government on the 16th of June, 1919, the armistice would only terminate on refusal to sign the peace or if no answer were received on the 22d of June at 7 o'clock. According to internal law, as embodied in articles 40 and 41 of the regulations annexed to the fourth plague convention of 1907, the violation of the armistice by one of the parties gives the other party the right to denounce it and even in case of urgency to recommence hostilities at once."

"A violation of the terms of the armistice by individuals, acting on their own initiative, only confers the right of demanding the punishment of these offenders, and, if necessary, indemnity for the losses sustained. It will, therefore, be open to the allied and associated powers to bring before a military tribunal the persons responsible for these acts of destruction, so that the appropriate penalties may be imposed. Furthermore the incident gives the allied and associated powers a right to reparation for the loss caused, and in consequence a right to proceed to such further measures as the said powers may deem appropriate."

"Lastly, the sinking of the German fleet is not only a violation of the armistice, but can only be regarded by the allied and associated powers as a deliberate breach in advance of the conditions communicated to Germany and accepted by her."

BURNING OF FRENCH FLAGS DENOUNCED.

Furthermore, the incident is not an isolated act. The burning or permission for the burning of the French flags which Germany was to restore constitutes a deliberate breach in advance of these same conditions.

"In consequence the allied and associated powers declare that they take note of this sign of bad faith and that when the investigations have been completed, into all the circumstances, they will exact the necessary reparation. It is evident that any repetition of acts like those must have a very unfortunate effect upon the future operation of the treaty which the Germans are about to sign."

"They have made complaint of the fifteen years' period of occupation which the treaty contemplates. They have made complaint that admission to the league of nations may be too long deferred. How can Germany put forward such claims if she encourages or permits deliberate violations of her written engagements? She cannot complain should the allies use the full powers conferred upon them by the treaty, particularly Article 429 if she on her side deliberately violates its provisions."

Russian Bolsheviks Kill 4 Americans

WASHINGTON, June 26. (United Press)—One officer and three men of the American expedition in Siberia were killed and two men wounded when they went to the assistance of five of the corps captured by anti-Kolchak forces on June 22. Major General William Graves cabled the war department today. All the killed and wounded were members of the 31st infantry, a regular army unit.

All of the men were of the 31st infantry. Those killed were: Lieutenant Albert Francis Ward, Corporal Jesse M. Reed and Privates D. P. Craig and Charles L. Flake. Wounded, degree undetermined, were: Corporal George A. Jensen and Private Clarence G. Crail.

STRIKERS WILL VOTE ON OFFER

the northwest as such a strike has already been called on their own account.

The two withdrawing local unions used a statement saying they were not willing that the compromise offered by the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company be submitted to referendum for the reason that the concessions offered operators were Officers of the company, the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers and the striking unions held a long conference with Mayor Joseph R. P. Francisco, and with the board of supervisors in an effort to arrive at some agreement.

The foregoing are the principal developments today of the strike, but, according to the majority of the operators there seems little chance of an agreement in the immediate future. They say that the action of their leaders in favor of submitting the compromise offer to a referendum in face of dissatisfaction at the compromise terms, has widened the breach between the leaders and other members of the union.

Here are the other developments in the last 24 hours:

Strikers rebel from leadership of their international union, department of the city, and the city authority in hands of their own central strike committee.

Strikers daily reject telephone company's proposed scale of wages.

OAKLAND OPERATORS WITHDRAW DELEGATES.

Oakland operators vote to withdraw their delegates from the conference as part of the revolt from the authority of the international officers.

Suggestion of international officers that telephone company's proposal be submitted to referendum by the union, was rejected by representatives, precipitating the split with the local leaders.

Board of supervisors of San Francisco appeals to Governor Stephens and Postmaster General Burleson to aid in stopping the strike.

Women in mass meeting led by society leaders pledge their support to the striking phone girls.

Telephone abandoned on advice of Policeman Allen E. Norcross, friend of Mrs. Cronin, after the body of the nurse had been found there in a lonely canyon. Mrs. Cronin denied the nurse's presence.

Northcott, who broke down and sobbed at the argument by the district attorney, defended her husband by saying he had been with her at the Hotel Whitcomb during every night between February 23 and March 10.

Governor Declines to Halt Lynching

LAUREL, Miss., June 26.—John Hartfield, negro, who forcibly detained a young white woman in the thickets and canebrake near Laurel Sunday night, June 15, has been captured and lynched. It was publicly announced that he would be burned at the stake at 4 p. m. today.

The governor of Mississippi was appealed to by some of the more conservative citizens here. But Hartfield was burned to death.

JACKSON, Miss., June 26.—Governor Bilbo said today before the lynching of John Hartfield, that he was powerless to interfere.

"This state has no troops," said the governor. "Furthermore, excitement is at such a high pitch throughout Southern Mississippi that any attempt to interfere with the mob would doubtless result in the death of hundreds of persons. The negro has confessed, says he is ready to die, and nobody can keep the inevitable from happening."

Americans in Mexico Just Miss Execution

NOGALES, Ariz., June 26.—Two American citizens were saved from execution today at Hermosillo by the prompt action of American Consul Dyer of Nogales.

Jose and Ramon Reynaldo, sons of Jose Reynaldo, Sr., an American resident of Douglas, Ariz., were ordered executed for alleged violation of the liquor laws of Sonora. Consul Dyer learned of their American citizenship in time to telegraph to General P. Elias Calles, military governor, who released the Americans a short time before they were to have been executed.

Fire Destroys Town in Coachella Valley

RIVERSIDE, June 26.—Word was received here last night that fire probably destroyed the town of Thermal, eight miles west of the city, in the Coachella valley, in Riverside county.

The chief item in a total loss estimated at $25,000, was that of $7000 in liberty bonds, the property of a guest at the Flamingo hotel, where the fire originated.

The hotel, the town hall, several business houses and cottages were destroyed. Few of the buildings were insured.

The theory of the case that the prosecution has sought to establish, and that was urged by Swart in his argument, is that the house at 615 Highland avenue in San Mateo was taken over by Dr. Northcott for the purposes of illegal operations, that he persuaded Born to vacate the house at once that Miss Reed might be brought there early in the first week in March, and that Miss Reed did go there Monday night.

In contradiction of the defendant's alibi, Arthur Pidgeon, an automobile salesman, testified he went to the Highland avenue residence to see the doctor about an automobile and that Mrs. Ayres told him she should have gone there on Friday, March 7, explaining that Dr. Northcott was there on that date.

Wire Men Scored by Burleson "Re-employment Up to Managers"

WASHINGTON, June 26.—Postmaster General Burleson today told a committee of the American Federation of Labor that he would not direct the telephone companies to re-employ persons who went on strike, as he considered they had left their work in violation of the rules laid down by the government's wire control board and the war labor board.

Burleson told the committee that whether the strikers would be re-employed rested entirely with the managers of the companies.

"These employees voluntarily left the service of the companies," the Postmaster General said, "in violation of the rules of the war labor board and the wire control board, and the Postmaster General will not direct their re-employment. Shall established government and all policies be abandoned, or employees, because of threatened or attempted strikes? The Postmaster General has answered no."

The managerial officers of the telephone companies report to me today that the traffic is being handled without delay; that their business is practically normal; that the machinery for handling grievances of employees is at this time functioning and that no grievances are pending unacted upon; and furthermore, that no denial has been made by either company of the right of its own employees to individual or collective bargaining in settlement of grievances."

After leaving the Postmaster General the Federation committee and S. J. Koenekamp, president of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union, conferred among themselves. Koenekamp read the Postmaster General's announcement but said he would not comment on it until later.

PETERSEN SEEKS JOB AS POLICE CHIEF, CROSBY SAYS

NEDDERMAN DEFENSE OUTLINES ITS CASE IN ACCUSATION OF PLOT

sen is alleged to have repeated the statement at the Morse hearing.

The chief of these alleged discrepancies, Crosby said, was that he had paid $100 to Nedderman, not $200 and $250 as he has stated in the present case. Looz denied having mentioned the smaller amount to Petersen.

"How did the chief happen to give you the number of his private phone?" asked Decoto as the morning session opened.

"He said any time I wanted to ring him up I better ring him up on that phone," was the reply.

Looz denied ever owing Nedderman money. He told of meeting Nedderman in the tax collector's office on July 8, 1918, which date he established by tax payments, and being requested by the chief to come to see him.

"He said he had been on a vacation and needed some money," Looz said.

Looz said he took a taxi and went out to the chief's house a day or two later, after talking to Nedderman over the telephone, and there made another payment to him of $250.

The letter which Decoto had written to Nedderman complaining of gambling in the city was admitted as evidence with the stipulation that the data it alleged was not a reason for its introduction, but that it was merely to show that the letter, written to Nedderman, presently was shown to Looz.

Looz was able to furnish only a copy of this letter, but he was immediately tendered the original by Crosby.

"My dear chief," in the last week several complaints have come into this office from the wives of different workers in the shipyards, that their husbands have been losing their wages in the various gambling clubs in the city of Oakland, particularly at the Leeman's, the Bartenders' and the Dunbar club, and the new club just opened on Fifteenth street.

"From the information that has been placed before me it appears that they are running crap games and other games in these places in violation of the law. Will you kindly take these matters up at once?"

The letter was written September 12, 1918, and bore Decoto's signature. Under questioning the witness made the following statement:

SAYS COCKRELL MET HIM AND SHOWED THE LETTER.

"Cockrell ring me up over the phone and told me to meet him and I met him at Eleventh and Broadway. He showed me this letter, and asked me what I thought about it. I said I guessed that meant we had better close up, for every little thing that came up, he said I ought to see the chief. I didn't see the chief, but we did close up until 12 o'clock. Then I found all the other clubs were running and went back again."

In an argument of attorneys that arose at this moment, Judge Quinn emphasized for the benefit of the jury the fact that his duty in the case was to rule upon points of law; that points of fact were for the jury to decide.

At the opening of the cross examination, Looz declared he was 39 years of age, a native of Germany, and that he came to this country in 1908, settling first in Nevada as a farmer and subsequently coming to Oakland.

Crosby questioned him at some length regarding dates and addresses where he had moved in Oakland.

He said he had been connected with the Bartenders' Club as an officer since 1914. The society was incorporated by members of the Bartenders' Union, to which he had belonged since 1911. Coming to Oakland in 1908, he said he had been a bartender at various saloons. The club was incorporated in 1910 or 1911, he said.

Looz said he became a resident of the Bartenders' Club, but was social manager of the Bartenders' Club, which he explained were separate institutions.

The two were together at 424 Twelfth street, he testified, from March, 1914, until July 1, 1918, when the Bartenders' Union moved to the Labor Temple at the order of the international. At the time of this removal, he declared, he bought out the Bartenders' Club and that subsequently it was run by himself and Fred Bard, his partner.

TALKS OF MEETING WITH NEDDERMAN.

Under cross-examination he said that Nedderman's first visit to the Bartenders' Club was on the 2d or 3d of September, 1917, when, he said, the former chief visited the place with Corporal C. O. Hunt.

Nothing relevant to the present charges was mentioned. Subsequent occasions on which the chief and Looz conversed, the latter said, were when Nedderman and Lynch visited the club, the chief's office, at Edvin's cafe, at Fifty-first street and College avenue. Looz was unable to remember in order the subsequent occasions on which he met Nedderman.

He said he remembered where they were but he could not recall their order.

Here the cross-examination was swung by Crosby to the Morse investigation and the preliminary charges and proceeded as follows:

Crosby—Have you ever told this story before here and the grand jury?

Looz—To Captain Petersen and to Mr. Decoto.

Q. When did you tell it to Petersen?

A. Three weeks before the grand jury met. (This meeting was fixed at May 13 last.)

Q. Where was this?

A. It was in Petersen's office. Just the two of us were there.

SAYS NEDDERMAN CALLED HIM OUT TO HIS HOUSE.

Here the defense renewed its demand for the Morse transcript, which was refused by the court.

Q. Did you tell Captain Petersen at that time, as he subsequently stated before Commissioner Morse, that the amount of money you first called on Petersen in his office, Petersen then made this statement to him:

"You have been getting $7.50 a month out of the gamblers. I've got the dope on the matter. The chief has been receiving money, too, and you know all about it."

"Nightingale declared there was a truth in this assertion, and Petersen then said:

"Now, look here, Nightingale. I soon be chief of police of Oakland. There is no question about it. Your position right now isn't worth much. They have threatened to break you, and there isn't much that you can save you. But if you will sign a statement for me to the effect that you have been getting the money, and that there is graft going on in the police department between the police and gamblers, and that you know about it, I'll see that you are taken care of. It's your only chance, so far as I can see. These people won't do anything for you and I will."

SAYS NIGHTINGALE REFUSED DEMAND.

"Nightingale's reply was a flat refusal to do anything of the kind. He said he did not know of any graft in the police department, and made this statement in addition:

"I would rather lose my position than to make any statement for an innocent person in this manner."

"With that Nightingale left, but this was not the end of the matter, so far as Petersen was concerned.

Immediately after the meeting, a reporter on an Oakland paper, in the pursuit of Nightingale and tried in every possible manner to secure from him for Petersen the statement that Petersen had made.

"Nightingale at his home and elsewhere time after time. He not only demanded this statement from Nightingale, but he also told Nightingale that he had the material for an infamous article about him."

"This article referred to Nightingale's reputation and to his domestic affairs. He told Nightingale that he would not publish the story of Nightingale's 'come home' to Petersen with the statement that Petersen had demanded. On each occasion Nightingale refused to make the statement, and Owen just as consistently refused to persecute him. Nightingale never did make the statement demanded of him, and he appeared before Commissioner P. F. Morse, head of the department, categorically denied both a confession to Petersen and that he knew that graft was going on in this city."

"On many occasions this defendant, we will seek to prove, indicated that he was adverse to the gamblers and was upon engineering for law. For instance, almost as soon as he became chief of police he removed from his station Captain Cook, Captain Cook was then in command of the street station, and he was removed because Cook was the associate, the advisor, the emissary and the friend of the Chinese gamblers."

"We shall attempt to prove that immediately after his removal from this position, and the others had been returned, and immediately after this defendant had been arrested, and even while he was at the bar of this court attempting to arrange for his release on bonds, Walter J. Petersen was in the office of Commissioner Morse seeking to have the office which Nedderman still held."

"In short, we shall attempt to show that this entire graft prosecution originated with Captain Petersen. It was refused by him, by him, that he was the sole instigator of it and has been its chief supporter, that it has been originated because he wanted to get the chief of police out of this city, and that Looz, the Chinese gamblers, Bard, Cook and all of them are simply his agents."

Some moments intervened before the appearance of Looz, while court attorneys, jury and spectators set themselves for what was expected to be one of the chief features of the trial. So far it did prove to be the chief feature.

Looz told, under District Attorney Decoto's questioning, of numerous occasions on which he had paid money to Nedderman, and of the man's promise of immunity from raids for the Bartenders' Club in return; of payments made to Cockrell and rows with Nedderman over Cockrell's employment for the police; of the games that were played at the Bartenders' Club and of the method of the payment to Nedderman by one-half in a month, the other half being closed for two weeks at Dave Cockrell's orders because of an anti-graft campaign then being waged here by State Senator Edgie Grant, and of the fact that he had been in the office of the chief of police on which the present case is based.

The earlier portion of Looz's testimony was interrupted at several points by Crosby, who insisted that "leading questions" were being put to him and that his answers were not responsive to questions even when the phrases of this was unobjectionable. On several of these objections he was overruled by the court and noted exception.

TWELVE MONTHS CHECKED BY LOOZ.

Looz informed the court that his present business was that of a rancher. He said he had a ranch at Hayward, and that he was residing there and operating the property. He said he went to the court and adjourned at 4:30 o'clock dealt with a period of time ranging from the fall of 1917 to the month of September, 1918, with one exception, reference to December, 1918, the month in which the Bartenders' Club was raided by Captain Thorwald Brown and policemen.

At this time Looz declared he was accustomed to paying Nedderman $250 a month, always in paper money. He said he paid the money to Nedderman in the latter's office in the city hall on several occasions; on these it was paid, witness declared, at Edvin's Cafe, the Hotel Oakland and Nedderman's home respectively.

Looz began by telling of seeing Nedderman soon after the latter had taken office as chief of police in the fall of 1917. He declared he asked Nedderman what the chief was doing, and he answered that he was in the office of the chief of police and what would happen if he did. He quoted the chief as replying:

"You had better be easy for a little while. Things are not ripe yet. Better lay low for a while."

Then he detailed the scene in the Bartenders' Club one night in September of the same year. He had gone out about 7:30 o'clock, he said, and found his partner, Fred Bard, the secretary of the club, in charge. When he returned late in the evening he found the place had been deserted by its customary habitués, but in their place he found Captain J. F. Lynch, now chief of police, and Nedderman. Lynch was seated at the table, he said, and Nedderman was standing a short distance away. Under questioning Looz continued his testimony as follows:

"First thing Lynch says to me: 'Whose money is that?' There was money on the table. Then he says to me: 'How do you work this thing? How do you get by with it?'"

DECLARED NEDDERMAN MAINLY STAYED.

"What did Chief Nedderman say?" asked Decoto.

"He didn't say anything," was the reply.

"How far was he away?" the district attorney demanded.

"Just a little ways," replied Looz, who added that the former chief could hear what was said. Looz continued:

"Lynch says to me: 'Count the money.' I didn't want to count it, but he says to go ahead and count it, but he didn't want us saying he got out of it."

Lynch asked a number of other questions, Looz said, as to how the club was conducted, in answer to which Looz said he showed him a book of the police department, and the games were placed when sergeants or the police intruded, and another room into which the players were accustomed to going when so intruded, and a check was made into which Lynch looked. Later Lynch and Nedderman left.

It was in October, 1917, Looz further testified, that about $500 was paid by him to Nedderman. He laid the scene in the chief's office at the southwest corner of the city hall, on the second floor. No one was there, he said.

The interview opened but Nedderman and himself. Under questioning he recalled the details of that meeting as follows:

"The chief had told me to meet him there, and so I went there and went on into his private office. First thing the chief says was, who told you to open up. He said it looked to him as if I were a gambler, and he wasn't getting anything out of it."

"Well, I says to him, 'I want to be good fellow and do what's right by you.'"

"So I threw $200 on his desk. It was in paper money. I think there was two $100 bills, but maybe there was one $100 and two $50 bills. I put it in his pocket. A moment later Corporal Coley came in. He didn't knock or anything, but walked right in. He was Nedderman's secretary. I said, 'I want to see you say something to the chief about a banquet or something, and pretty soon he went out. The chief swore at me. He was sore at Coley walking in like that.'"

SAYS COLEY WAS SCORED BY CHIEF.

"What did he say?" asked Decoto. After some pressing the witness uttered the epithet which is customarily known as "the fighting word."

"He called him that for butting in," said Looz.

The witness proceeded to the episode of Edvin's Cafe on Sixteenth street, which, he said, took place a little later in the same year. He declared the chief called him on the telephone the night before and told him to meet him there that day at 10 o'clock. He said he went ahead of the chief and went into a booth, where Nedderman appeared a few minutes later. The testimony proceeded thus, with Decoto questioning:

Q. What did the chief say?

A. He didn't say anything.

Q. What did you say?

A. I didn't say anything. I just gave him $200.

Q. What happened after that?

A. He said, 'Wait a minute,' and then he walked out.

Q. When did you give him the $200 which you gave him?

A. It was in paper money, like before.

Q. What did the chief do with it?

A. He put it in his pocket, and told me to wait so he could go out first.

Q. How long after he left did you leave?

A. I waited about five minutes. Here District Attorney Decoto interjected a question as to what games Looz had been running at the Bartenders' Club during the period which had been under discussion. Looz said they were crap games, "twenty-one," stud-horse poker, and others.

AUTOMOBILE RIDE WITH CHIEF.

The testimony proceeded to the first part of December, 1917, when Looz said he went to the club one evening to be handed a note by Bard with a telephone number, Piedmont 844, thereon, which number he called up, not knowing who it was. Nedderman answered, he said.

He asked me how soon I could meet him, and I told him right away. Looz added:

"He said all right, and I got there about 8 o'clock. The chief was waiting in an auto, and I got into the front seat with him and we drove around several blocks. He showed me his house. He said they had come to the conclusion that we could run, but that it would cost us $250 a month."

"Whom did he mean by 'they'?" Decoto demanded.

"Jackson and him," was the reply. Looz continued:

"He asked me if I ever paid any money to Judge Geary or George Jackson. I said no, and he said for me not to say anything. He then said Jackson had broken off with his brother and Geary. Nedderman told us we could run crap games, and he said we must pay this $250 a month, and that it was payable on the 15th of the month. He told us the only places that could run was a colored place in West Oakland and the Dunbar Club and the Bartenders' Club."

"Was anything said," Decoto here asked, "as to whom this money was for, or what it was to go to?"

"Yes," said Looz, "it was his and Jackson's."

"He said that Dave Cockrell would be collecting. I told him I didn't want to have anything to do with Cockrell, but he said he could let Cockrell know, and he would call and see me. I went back to our headquarters, 419 Twelfth street, and about five minutes after I got there Cockrell came up. He said: 'I suppose you know what I am here for.'"

"Yes," I said, "I had a talk with the chief. And I paid him $250. Cockrell looked over the place for a while and said it looked pretty good to him. He proposed that I give him a half-interest in the place. Bard and I were to keep the other half; that would make us a quarter interest a piece."

He established the nature of this alleged demand by Cockrell, Decoto asked if Cockrell proposed to pay sometimes a good many; there might be 10 or there might be twenty-five. Q. Were they playing at these games?

A. Yes.

Q. Was the club raided by the police during the time in which you say you were paying money to Nedderman?

A. No.

Q. After you quit paying money was your place raided?

A. Yes, on December 7. Captain Brown raided us. Everybody up there was arrested. I was arrested, too.

Looz declared that as soon as his case had been heard in court he was released at once, the same day in fact, as Nedderman's case, where he protested against the raid. He continued:

"I told him I was getting pretty sick of this. He said Brown had put it over his head while he was in Sacramento. He said Brown wanted to be chief of police. He said we would have to lay low for a while and be careful."

"I told him Corporal O'Neill had been hounding us, too. I had complained to him before that about O'Neill. I told the chief we had been paying O'Neill $40 a month for four or five months. He said, he would put O'Neill out in the fog belt. He put him in his office, but he only kept him there for two weeks."

Adjournment was then taken to this morning.

GET RID OF THOSE ANTS—USE THE RIGHT METHODS

Argo Ant Poison Rightly Used Will Put Them Out of Business

A customer came in the store last week and told us that she had just begun to appreciate the wonderful effectiveness of Argo Ant Poison. She had been troubled for several seasons and although she had used all kinds of powders and ant poisons (including our Argo Ant Poison), she had never been able to rid her house of these disagreeable pests. About two weeks ago some one told her that she was using her ant poison in the wrong manner and advised her to come here and get a couple of bottles of Argo Ant Poison. She placed them in her garden. She stated to us that she followed these instructions and within 12 hours the ants had left the house and was feeding upon this poison out of doors. We found out later that she had been using Argo Ant

FLASH LIGHTS FOR VACATION

Do you know that Eveready Flash Lanterns are made in models that sell as high as $25.00? We also have them for as low as $1.00. We have them in every shape and size imaginable from the kind that the doctors use that look like fountain pens to the kind that the campers use that look like ship lanterns. We also carry all kinds of batteries to fit all styles of Eveready Flash Lights. If it should happen that your battery runs out, you will find extra batteries in almost any town that has a general merchandise store, in fact, some of the Eveready Flash Lanterns use the ordinary type of dry cell similar to those used for electric bells. We have more generally handy and more greatly appreciated on an outing trip than a good electric flash light.

FOOT COMFORT

There would be a great many people less tired at night if they wore a little foot powder in their shoes. For 15c you can get a can of "Foot Comfort" that is worth $15.00. The satisfaction you get out of it, some people hesitate to believe that any comfort can be derived from an innocent looking little white powder, but to those people, we simply say "try it."

BLACK STAIN

Every one in a white blouse has used a little black stain and a small brush. Sometimes you want to paint a sign, or you may wish to brighten up an old hand bag, or a piece of metal, or turn a rusty object into a brilliant, glossy, jet black stain called "Blackie." Blackie comes in a bottle with a brush and a small can of water. It is water-proof, easy to apply and does not require mixing. Every household should have a bottle of Blackie.

EXTRA GOOD LEMON EXTRACT

Are You Interested?

Most cooks use but very little lemon and vanilla extract, which is all the more reason why you should always obtain the best quality. As a rule, people buy these extracts of a grocery store without regard to brand or quality. We started to make these extracts in our laboratories a number of years ago for a few of our customers who wanted something a little better than the average grocery store brand. The quality of our extracts gradually developed the demand for them at our stores until today, we sell great quantities of both lemon and vanilla extracts and are constantly reminded of the unusual quality characteristic of the Bowman brand. If you want something a little better than you generally get, try some of these extracts which are for sale at any of our stores.

IMPORTED PRE-CEDA FACE POWDER 50c BOX

Many of our customers are surprised that for 50c they can procure such a splendid imported face powder as this. This powder comes from France and is of the highest quality. It is imported into this country in bulk and boxed in America. Although we sell a great many different kinds of face powder, there is no one so frequently called for and repeatedly purchased by all of its users as this imported French product. It comes in various colors and has proven to be so wonderfully satisfactory that we recommend it above all face powders sold at our stores.

CHICAGO ARMS GUARD TO HALT RED OUTBREAKS

CHICAGO, June 26.—Troops of the Illinois reserve militia, with machine guns and other necessary equipment, are to guard Chicago from any "red" outbreak on July 4. Five regiments of the militia, it became known today, are being armed and trained to prevent any radical demonstration.

Permission to use the militia to guard the city has been given agents of the department of justice and the United States marshal by Governor Frank O. Lowden.

Government agents have been informed for weeks of plans of the "reds" to stage demonstrations in Chicago and elsewhere on July 4, and the calling in of the militia here is but one of many steps that have been taken to guard against outbreak.

Headquarters of the Chicago "reds" will be under guard of troops, while others will patrol the streets in districts where outbreaks might be expected. Motorcycle machine guns will be held in readiness for service in any part of the city and automobiles loaded with picked militiamen will be stationed at various centers.

HIGH MASS FOR OAKLAND PASTOR

With Archbishop Hanna conducting services, solemn requiem high mass was held in St. Patrick's church, West Oakland, this morning for the late pastor, Father Maurice Barry, who died Monday in St. Mary's Hospital, San Francisco. Interment was in Holy Cross cemetery. The services were attended by many notables of the Catholic clergy in California and by hundreds of friends of the dead pastor.

Father Barry had been with St. Patrick's church for six years, coming from Healdsburg. He was a native of Ireland and came to California twenty-two years ago, just after being ordained.

British-American Veterans Of Great War to Give Dance

MISS AMY HOLMAN.

First Organization of Its Kind in U.S. Applies for Charter

BERKELEY, June 25.—As its first public gathering planned to raise funds to further its patriotic work, the members of the British-American Great War Veterans' association, the first organization of its kind to be formed in the United States, will give a concert and dance Saturday evening at the Masonic Temple.

Included as members of the association are former British officers serving under the flag of the empire in the great war. Berkeley's organization has assumed the role of a nucleus of the nation and already requests of affiliation have come from other similar groups of veterans from various parts of the state.

CHARTER APPLICATION.
Application for a charter was made this week to the secretary of state and the association will be duly incorporated under the laws of California.

Saturday night's entertainment and dance is being arranged under the direction of a committee headed by H. A. Childs and J. L. Belden, veterans of the war. Creyke and E. C. Pepper. Assisting in the evening's program will be a group of entertainers well known in the bay section for their talent.

Miss Amy Holman, gifted contralto singer, who entered the service in British hospitals before coming to this country, will be heard in a group of songs. Also Mrs. E. Chamberlain and Miss Dorothy Harrison, the latter formerly of the Pantages circuit.

HAWAIIAN ORCHESTRA.
Sixteen members of the Royal Hawaiian orchestra, composed entirely of American boys who saw service in the war, will be another feature of the program, while other members will include comedy dialogue by H. A. Childs, formerly of the 72d Searchlight Engineers, while Piper Cant, son of the same regiment will play harp selections. Recitations by Mrs. A. J. Stenmons and violin section.

The program will begin at 8:15 o'clock and will be open to the public. Dancing will follow the entertainment.

FINED $250 FOR FIGHTING OVER ROOSTER

BERKELEY, June 26.—S. F. Crank, Berkeley cook, residing at 1222 Blackstone street, loves a white rooster, but he doesn't care for it $250 worth.

Yesterday afternoon in Judge Edgar's court Crank was found guilty of battering up the countenance of Arthur Brabant, alias claimant of the rooster. He was ordered to pay the sum of $250 or go to jail for 180 days. Crank refused to either one and has appealed the case to a higher court.

"That was my rooster and I had a right to fight for it," declared the convicted defendant. Besides Crank claims Brabant used insulting language to his sister, Mrs. Cora Norris, and he resented it.

The Cranks and Brabants are neighbors. Each claim the white rooster, the bone of contention in the altercation. Neighbors called to the stand testified the rooster as belonging to both claimants.

Twelve men sitting on a jury grew angry as they tried to decide the ownership of the treasured fowl. But they agreed that somebody had done a good job in battering up Brabant's countenance and they let the matter rest there. They found Crank guilty of the charge preferred against him.

FARM SCHOOL TO OPEN JUNE 30

The summer courses for training farmer teachers under the Smith-Hughes law will open at the University Farm, Davis, California, June 30, and will continue until August 3. Since there are twenty-three courses offered in the teacher training department in vocational agriculture, and since a number of soldiers are engaged in rehabilitation work at the University Farm, busy times are expected, over a hundred and fifty students have already registered for work. These students are from California, Arizona, Idaho, Washington, Iowa, Illinois, Kansas and New York.

An exceptional opportunity is offered, for there are no tuition or laboratory fees for those preparing for vocational work. The work is being made practical, so that the teachers will be prepared not only to instruct their pupils at school, but to visit their homes and to help them raise better crops and animals. With the large University Farm to use as a laboratory for this vocational work, better things will be expected of the teachers this coming year. Many positions are now open and more will be open later in the season.

IT IS TONIC TIME WHEN EVERY DRAFT GIVES YOU A COLD

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Proved
Just the Thing to Build Up
This Illinois Resident.

Thin-blooded people are sensitive to every change of temperature. A draft will invariably cause a cold and a drop in the thermometer, even during the warm months, will frequently cause a cold, summer colds that are hard to throw off. These subjects to colds will find help in the experience of Mrs. Morilla Lenon of No. 202 Union street, Bloomington, Ill. She says:

"I had a severe attack of influenza and it left me so weak and feeble that I could hardly get about. I was susceptible to colds, in fact I was seldom without one, and had a bronchial cough that worried me. My head ached a great deal, causing loss of sleep. I had little appetite and my stomach was weak."

"One day I decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and it proved a fortunate decision for in a little over a week my appetite improved. My stomach was also better and I was able to eat a hearty meal. I continued the treatment until my headaches and the cough disappeared. I have gained strength and feel almost as well as I ever did. I have told many of my friends about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, for I cannot recommend them too highly."

PHYSICALLY FIT AT ANY AGE

It isn't age, it's careless living that lets you get out of shape. Keep your internal organs in good condition and you will always be physically fit.

The kidneys are the most overworked organs in the human body. When they are down under the strain and the deadly uric acid accumulates and crystallizes look out! These sharp crystals can scratch the delicate urinary channels causing excruciating pain and set up irritations which may cause premature degeneration and "old" do turn into deadly Bright's Disease.

One of the first warnings of sluggish kidney action is pain or stiffness in the small of the back, loss of appetite, indigestion or rheumatism.

Do not wait until the danger is upon you. At the first indication of trouble go after the cause once. Get a trial box of GOLD MEDAL Hamlet Oil Capsules, imported direct from the laboratories in Holland. They will give almost immediate relief for any one that brings out all the natural beauty of the hair and may be enjoyed at very little expense, by dissolving a teaspoonful of "canthrox," which can be obtained from any druggist's, in a cup of hot water. This makes a full cup of shampoo liquid, enough so it is easy to apply it to all the hair instead of just to the top of the head. This, when rubbed into the scalp and over every strand of hair, chemically dissolves all impurities. It is very soothing and cooling in its action, as well as beneficial to both scalp and hair. After rinsing out the lather so created, you will find the scalp is fresh, clean and free from dandruff, while the hair dries quickly and evenly, developing a bright luster and a soft fineness that makes it seem very heavy.—Advertisement.

A Shampoo Worth Trying

It is not necessary to shampoo your hair so frequently if it is entirely and properly cleaned at the time by the use of a really good shampoo. The easiest to use and quickest driving shampoo that we can recommend to our readers is one that brings out all the natural beauty of the hair and may be enjoyed at very little expense, by dissolving a teaspoonful of "canthrox," which can be obtained from any druggist's, in a cup of hot water. This makes a full cup of shampoo liquid, enough so it is easy to apply it to all the hair instead of just to the top of the head. ## No More Thin Folks

How Thin, Weak, Nervous People Can Put on Flesh and Gain Strength.

If you are weak, thin and emaciated and can't put on flesh or get strong, no matter how much you eat, go to The Owl Drug Co. and get enough Blood-Iron Phosphate for a three weeks' treatment and take it as directed. If at the end of three weeks you don't feel stronger and better than you were before, if your eyes aren't brighter and your nerves steadier, if you don't sleep better and your mind is clearer, if you haven't put on several pounds of good stout flesh, you can have your money back from the Owl Drug Co. and get your Blood-Iron Phosphate back for nothing.

IMPORTANT—Blood-Iron Phosphate is sold only in original packages, containing enough for three weeks' treatment, at $1.50 per package—only 50c a week.—Advertisement.

Heal Skin Diseases

It is unnecessary for you to suffer with eczema, blotches, ringworm, rashes and similar skin troubles. Zemo, obtained at any drug store, for 25c, or $1.00 for extra large bottle, and promptly applied will usually give instant relief from itching torture. It cleanses and soothes the skin and heals quickly and effectively most skin diseases.

Zemo is a wonderful, penetrating, disappearing liquid and is soothing to the most delicate skin. It is not greasy, is easily applied and costs little.

It itches and saves all further distress. The E. W. Ross Co., Cleveland, O.—Advertisement.

New, Positive Treatment to Remove Hair or Fuzz

(Beauty Notes)

Women are fast learning the value of the use of delatone for removing hair or fuzz from face, neck or arms. A paste is made with some powdered delatone and water and spread on the hairy surface. In 2 or 3 minutes it is rubbed off, the skin washed and every bit of hair has disappeared. No failure will result if you are careful to buy genuine delatone.—Advertisement.

He Takes Chance on Rabbit Family SAN FRANCISCO NEWS

Judge Leaves Justice to Bunny

SAN FRANCISCO, June 26.—James N. Bassity, 31, of 167 Mason street, who was charged with the murder of a rabbit, today was sentenced to the county jail for 30 days by Judge J. H. McQuinn.

The three men are partners in the Coronado saloon at 167 Mason street, which was raided early yesterday morning by internal revenue inspectors, who say that this saloon has been selling narcotics for many months. Two thousand dollars' worth of morphine, cocaine and heroin were seized.

The raid was made after an investigation lasting three weeks and was conducted by Dr. C. W. Montgomery, Joseph Condit and A. A. Elliott.

The government men said that a policeman entered the saloon while it was being raided and questioned the right of the government officers to seize the drugs.

Marked coins were taken from the cash register during the raid, which the internal officers say were passed over the counter Tuesday night by government operatives in the purchase of narcotics.

Three arrested men are out on $500 bail.

POLICE KEEP RABBIT UNTIL FAMILY ARRIVES

Police Judge Oppenheim looked down at the "evidence."

There sat Molly, a female Belgian hare, working her lips and nibbling at the grass.

Mrs. Mary Merman, 44, Wheat street, claims that Molly has always belonged to her. Mrs. Merman's neighbor, Mrs. Hannah Ellis, who lives at 124 Funston street, said that Molly disappeared and then reappeared in Mrs. Merman's yard.

After pondering for some time, Judge Oppenheim said:

Since Molly is to become a mother soon, it seems to me the best plan to place her in the police property room until the big occasion comes. If her new family is of even number the little hares shall be divided equally among the claimants. If they are of odd number, the case will have to be re-heard."

Meantime Molly is in custody of Captain Bernard Judge.

REFUSES TO PUT UP HIS HANDS: SHOT IN ARM

William K. Harnden, manufacturer, living at 124 Funston street, was shot in the arm by a hold-up man last night when returning from the theater with his wife.

He was hidden in the garage beneath the house and ordered Harnden to put up his hands as Harnden drove the car in. Harnden refused and the man opened fire, the bullet grazing his arm below the elbow.

ROLPH TO NAME NEW SUPERVISOR SOON

Mayor Rolph returned from Washington last night in company with Judge Matt I. Sullivan and Fire Commissioner John F. Davis.

The mayor made no statement in regard to an appointment of a successor to the late Supervisor E. J. Brandon, other than that he expected to make the appointment in a day or two.

CENSORSHIP TRIBUTE TO U. S. NEWSPAPERS

The voluntary censorship which the newspapers of America placed on their columns during the war was far better than any censorship enforced by the ironbound prohibitions of the other belligerents," declared George Creel, former chairman of the committee on public information, yesterday afternoon in addressing the San Francisco Advertising Club.

Creel told how newspapers of foreign countries had been supplied with a news service from America which gave them a true insight into American ideals instead of brief despatches of earthquakes, lynchings and graft exposures as was usually the case before the war.

Another work was the encouraging of the production of patriotic war films showing American ideals and a higher grade of motion picture production, Creel said.

The entire work of the committee cost the government over $1,000,000, and Creel pointed out that this was less than Germany spent in propaganda work in Mexico alone.

POETRY IS READ INTO RECORDS OF DIVORCE

A little four-line poem called "Love and Home" by Attorney Robert F. Troy was read into the records of the Superior Court yesterday by the author as a means of preserving them to posterity.

Mrs. Hortense Troy is suing him for divorce in an action which abounds with charges of cruelty. The case was continued to August 10 on account of Judge Murasky's summer vacation.

The judge asked the litigants to attempt a settlement during his vacation. The case has already been heard for fourteen days.

MURDER THEORY IN BODY FOUND ON BAY SHORE

The body of a man, believed to have been murdered and robbed, was found on the bay shore near Candlestick Rock, near South San Francisco, yesterday afternoon.

The man's face was badly bruised and both legs were gashed and torn. Everything of value had been taken from the clothes and the only mark of identification was the maker's name on the coat.

Link's, 112 Market street. The body was discovered by John Draydeck, 1216 Hollister street.

RETURNED SOLDIER GRANTED DIVORCE

Letters and a telegram conched in endearing expressions and signed "Alvin W. Winkelman," won a divorce for Alfred W. Gallagher, recently returned soldier, from Doris E. Gallagher in the court of Superior Judge Deasy yesterday.

Gallagher also showed a letter his wife had written to him while he was in France saying, "I'm afraid when you get home you won't want your wife any more."

Mrs. Gallagher was employed as a chorus girl in a musical comedy company during Gallagher's absence.

BOY JUMPS ON TRUCK; DIES IN THE HOSPITAL

Eto Tanaka, 9 years old, who lived at 82 Putnam street with his guardian, Mrs. Anna Pulk, died at the Mission Emergency hospital yesterday after having been thrown from and run over by a runaway motor truck.

The truck was driven by a man who was arrested and taken to the police station.

BELGIAN HONORS FOR LOCAL WOMAN

In recognition of her services during the war to her mother country, Mrs. A. Vander Naillen, wife of Professor A. Vander Naillen, pioneer educator and founder of the Vander Naillen School of Engineering, now part of the engineering department of St. Mary's College, has been decorated by King Albert of Belgium. The formal notice of the honor was received here today.

Mrs. Vander Naillen came to America many years ago with her husband, who after graduating from a technical institute in Belgium founded an engineering college in Chicago, later coming to San Francisco, and after the fire, to Oakland.

Professor Vander Naillen some thirty years ago was made a Chevalier of the Order of Leopold, in recognition of his scientific attainments. He brought the first X-ray apparatus to America, and was a personal friend of Roentgen, the inventor. He is the author of a number of books on mathematics and metaphysics.

During the war Professor Vander Naillen, who is more than 90 years old, and his wife, took a prominent part in Belgian relief work and other war work.

Mrs. Vander Naillen is the mother of E. L. Vander Naillen and A. L. Vander Naillen of this city and Mrs. Joseph J. Bullock of Burlingame.

DIVORCE ULTIMATUM IS HANDLED TO JUDGE

Mrs. Rose Leyon, 936 York street, appeared before Judge Morgan yesterday in the hearing of her suit for divorce from Carl Leyon, 2458 Union street. She handed the judge a written statement of her demands and said that unless he agreed to grant them she would "quit cold" and Judge Morgan "wouldn't get to try" the case.

She demanded $100 cash indemnity, title to her husband's home, stand in Lassen county, forced employment as a stevedore for her husband with alimony from his wages for her. After the testimony was heard Judge Morgan granted her a divorce and $10 a month alimony, which the husband does not begin to pay until his Lassen county home stand is completely paid for.

Delegates from Board of Trade organizations in British Columbia met at New Westminster to consider clearing and seeding of 400,000 acres of arable, uncultivated, uncultivated land in the Fraser valley for pasture.

Italian Official Pleads for Support

ROME, Wednesday, June 25.—Foreign Minister Tittoni, addressing the Senate today called upon parliament and the country for their full and unconditional support, regardless of party. He said the Italian parliament and the country realize with anxiety that while the disposition of the national aspirations still is uncertain, those of other powers already have been acknowledged. He said he was quite willing to answer all legitimate requests for explanations.

Musical and Social at Danish Church

A musical and social gathering will be held tomorrow night at the Danish-Norwegian Baptist church, on Twenty-fifth avenue, near East Fourteenth street. The Ladies Aid Society of the church will be in charge. There will be declamations, singing and instrumental music, including selections by a string band and violin solos by Prof. Thorvald Anderson. Refreshments will be served.

165 FIRE ALARMS SO FAR FOR JUNE

The busiest institution in Oakland this month has been the fire department, according to the firemen. The month of June has set a record for fire alarms, there having been 165 calls for the month to date, a larger total than has ever been seen before in the same period of time in this city.

Grass fires made a large part of these totals. According to Fire Chief Whitehead dried grass is more plentiful than ever before, and every day in the past two weeks there have been at least two grass fire alarms. Losses, however, have been much less through fire, Chief Whitehead's figures showing a $200,000 fire loss decrease over the same period last year.

Work in the "drill tower" has been resumed; another cause for worry among the firemen. This work was discontinued during the war because of a shortage of man power. All firemen are required to report at the tower once a week to go through practice climbs and other exercises. Call men and regulars will be on continual duty over the Fourth.

Fire Chief Whitehead stating that he expects many alarms through the use of firecrackers. Several auto trucks have been borrowed from the street department to augment the motor equipment of the fire department for the day.

REVELATIONS of a WIFE

by Adele Garrison

"Why, the thought came to me," I began diffidently, "that as Mr. Underwood used to be so interested in theatrical collections—"

"You wonder child!" Lillian exclaimed, jumping up from her chair. "Of course! The very thing! You mean he will be sure to haunt that room in the public library where they are showing that wonderful collection of programs and manuscript, plays and portraits of the theatrical world?"

I nodded, for I had no words with which to answer her. Her brain worked fast and she was very busy engaged with the more scholarly part of the collection—Harry thinks you're an awful high brow, you know. Have a notebook of course, and don't send even a glance in his direction until he discovers you."

"And then what?" I asked anxiously, for this was the question tormenting me. How was I ever to greet Harry Underwood unconcernedly with my fear of the man's sinister personality and my consciousness of the revelation Lillian had made to me of his feeling for me?"

"Act exactly the way you feel at first," Lillian replied promptly, and I saw that her zeal for the cause she was serving had enabled her to throw off the yoke of personal feeling that had hampered her in formulating plans concerning her recent husband. She was anxious to get the problem before her and was dealing with it as if a total stranger was concerned.

"You detect Harry, and are afraid of him," Lillian went on in the same curiously impersonal tone. "Therefore, you will naturally register aversion and umbrage. Then he will begin to talk to you and after a bit, in spite of yourself, you will experience the old, uncomfortable, fascinated interest which he always aroused in you. Instead of fighting to suppress my attitude as her mood in what he is saying, as you always used to do, compel yourself to a little tolerance. Make him feel that he has been able to lessen your aversion to him by so little."

"YOUR HEAD RULES." I am afraid the hackneyed expression, "stared at her open-mouthed," is the only one which would fully express my attitude as her mood in what he is saying, as you always used to do, compel yourself to a little tolerance. Make him feel that he has been able to lessen your aversion to him by so little."

AUNT ELSIE'S LETTERS TO HER KIDDIES

So do you know how little dog Snookums looks when he has been out in the back lot and covered himself with burrs? Member how the burrs just hung ALL OVER him, from the tip of his nose to the last little wag on his tail? Well, that's the way Aunt Elsie looks—only she isn't covered with burrs. SHE'S COVERED WITH LETTERS! There are letters in her back hair and letters in her front eyebrows, there are letters sitting on the edges of her ears and kicking, and letters turning over the heels of her feet.

"Yes, it is," said the boy, "because these were the first pieces of silver that I ever earned. So I decided to buy a new coat with them. As I was going to market to get the coat I met a poor old woman who was in rags. I stopped and thought to myself, 'I can wait and get my real coat some other time, but this poor woman needs help now.' So I gave her my three pieces of silver and she was so happy that she made me happy, too."

"Well," said the selfish King, "if these were the first pieces of silver that I ever earned. So I decided to buy a new coat with them. ## OAKLAND TRIBUNE DAILY ALMANAC

JUNE TWENTY-SIX.
Lest you forget, this date, 1919, Provost Marshal Crowder selected a girl clerk in the treasury department to draw the draft numbers. Woman's hand again kneads the dough of destiny. However, some time before this—1845—to be exact—Serrano E. Payne was born. Special mention must also be made of the world's only noiseless conversation—on June 26, 1889, the deaf-mutes of the country gathered at Washington.

SAM AND HIS GARDEN. HIS WIFE, THEIR COW, AND MRS. McLENDON'S PARALYSIS.
Sam Borden, who went to Bray, Calif., some time past has secured work in the mills there and is making splendid wages and has announced his intention to stay right there for some time to come. He will be here for the Fourth of July. Mrs. Borden is busy these days caring for his large garden and cow. She is also employed as a nurse at the McLendon home and reports Mrs. Clendon in about the same condition as when she suffered from her stroke of paralysis—Gold Hill (Oregon) News.

MAYBE 'T WAS ALL OF THEM WITH THE EMPHASIS ON HIS GOOD RIGHT ARM.
We have the case of a local woman who won a divorce from her husband because he boasted, "Whether of his heart-breaking proclivities, his mother's puer or his pretty neighbor's new hat, we know not."

BROTHER OF MARTS ARE LADEN WITH TRAVEL-STAINED FRUIT.
May we revert again to the editor of the Gold Hill News who stood "in the door of our office to watch the train pass by on its way over many weary miles to the sunny mar of California laden with travel-stained passengers."

WHY UNIVERSAL SUFFRAGE IS NECESSARY.
On the heels of a divorce complaint in which a 170-pound affinity is dubbed a "heavyweight vampire" comes a court ruling that a wife must collect her own alimony. From the distance appeared The storm came and went and it wasn't so bad. It rumbled and tossed me. But nothing it cost me. And now I can laugh at the scare that I had.

LINE TO THE BIRD IN THE TREES WHOSE BLAME FOR THE HIGH COST OF FRUIT.
Hey, little bird, I've just had you—You're lazy lummox! Drop those cherries; ain't you hard on Other people's stomachs? It isn't that I care about our But I must cry you aware about our System economic. There's a lot of human nature in the bottom layer of a basket of berries. —T. S. L.

THE CHEERFUL CHERUB
Our noble deeds are all like seeds That grow and blossom on. Our gifts to people coming here Long after we are gone.

UNITED WE GROW
Now all together, says the National War Garden Commission, of Washington, which will send you a garden book for a two-cent stamp to pay postage.

And pastboard wheels pinned on. Make the top of stiff white paper with a Red Cross painted on. And get sister to play with you. Then she can make a corps of Red Cross nurses.

PUZZLE WAGGLE.
Answer to last puzzle: The early bird catches the worm. Make your head save your heels. A ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure. New puzzle: CHAERADES.

In a charade the different syllables of a word taken and combined, forming a syllable making a little word by itself and the collection at syllables giving the whole word. My FIRST stands for company. My SECOND stands for company. My THIRD stands for company. My FOURTH stands for company. Without my FIRST your head would look most queer. My SECOND is by many girls held dear. My WHOLE is a word in a dictionary. My FIRST is found in every kitchen. My SECOND borders every continent. My THIRD is lowly and garden. My FOURTH is by many girls held dear. My WHOLE is a word in a dictionary. My FIRST is found in every kitchen. My SECOND borders every continent. My THIRD is lowly and garden. My FOURTH is by many girls held dear.

Do you remember that I told the girls last time how to make some dolls—little dolls—out of clothes-pins? Well, here is a whole new GAME made out of clothes-pins and pastboard. You can have whole regiments of soldiers from every country, towns by the dozen and armies by the score. You can make trenches in the sand pile for them and wage a regular war any time you want. And it's all so easy. Make the pictures as the picture shows, giving them khaki or "horizon blue" suits as you wish. Make the tents as follows: Take a piece of STIFF paper six inches in size. Fold it double on line A, then again as indicated in drawing and cut along the circular dotted line shown in drawing. Open and you have a little tent all ready to put up as soon as you provide it with a center pole and a tiny flag. If you want to make these tents more elaborate cut them out of khaki and sew together part of the top of the opening, pinning back the lower part for flaps, as is shown in the smaller tent picture. Cannon may be made by painting the stubs of the clothes-pins black, nailing two cardboard wheels to the ends and attaching a bit of elastic to the "head" of the clothes pin by means of which the ammunition (beans are fine) may be fired at the soldiers. And of course you will have some Red Cross ambulances made out of matchboxes with match axes glued to the bottoms

A FATHER'S WISH
I'd like to have him famous and I'd like to have him great; I'd like to have him wise enough some day to rule the state; I'd like to have that lad of mine possess the world's renown. And wear with honest modesty success' golden crown. But rather than the fortune and the fame that he may win I'd like to have him take his little troubles with a grin.

I hope that he'll be clever and I hope he'll prove his worth. I've dreamed about his conquests since the moment of his birth. I hope he'll come to riches for the good that he can do. But I'd rather have him manly, and I'd rather have him true. And when disappointments find him, as I know they must some day I'd like to have him meet them in a brave and cheerful way.

When another beats him fairly, I don't want that son o' mine To belittle his opponent or to whimper or to whine. I won't care what games he loses, if he's kept his record true And still has the grit to chuckle about his body's black and blue; I hope to see him happy, but when trouble mars his day I'd like to have him take it in a manly sort of way. I THOUGHT IT WAS TROUBLE.
I thought it was trouble, it looked like disaster, The heart in my breast, beating faster and faster, Excited my blood till it throbbed in my veins. And something kept saying: "Look out when it rains! Look out when it blows! For nobody knows Where your fond hopes will be when the whirlwind goes by. It will scatter. And shatter The fortune you've made in the wink of an eye."

I thought it was trouble, it looked like disaster, I stood still in despair and then wildly I hurried. Ran that way and that, and talked loudly as though I could keep back the wind that was starting to blow. Then all that I'd feared From the distance appeared The storm came and went and it wasn't so bad. It rumbled and tossed me. But nothing it cost me. And now I can laugh at the scare that I had.

I thought it was trouble. It was for a minute, I was heart sick and sore all the time I was in it. But I've learned that the cares and the burdens we harbor Are things that we sit back and laugh at tomorrow. So stand to the blow. And the oncoming woe Just wait till you're hurt ere you whimper and cry. And just see the thing through. Soon the skies will be blue. And you'll laugh at yourself when the storm has gone by. Kitchen Economies
The one-piece meal is especially attractive to the housekeeper at least, and in most cases it is most acceptable to the family in the warm weather when the appetite is repelled rather than attracted by too many dishes. There are a number of salads which are cool and tempting, and which can be served in the one-piece form. Combine any one of the proteins—meat, fish, cheese, eggs or nuts with a starch—vegetable and some greens, and you have a perfectly balanced one-piece meal that is easy to prepare and serve, and—best of all to the tired housekeeper—cuts down the amount of dishes to be washed afterward.

Baked Bean Salad.
2 cupsful of cold baked beans, 2 cupsful of chopped celery, 1 tablespoonful of tomato catsup, 2 tablespoonfuls of French dressing, 1 teaspoonful of chopped green pepper, 1 teaspoonful of onion juice. Mix the beans, celery, chopped pepper and onion juice. Then stir together the tomato catsup and French dressing and pour over all. Serve surrounded with lettuce. String beans may be treated the same way and make an excellent salad. Or they may be combined with cucumbers and sliced radishes. If celery is not available, mix one teaspoonful of celery seeds with the dressing and it will supply much of the same flavor of celery. Baked beans also combine well with beets or carrots or with chopped cabbage.

One-Piece Salads.
Following are a number of excellent one-piece salad combinations suitable for warm weather meals. Hard-boiled eggs, boiled chestnuts, lettuce and French dressing. Canned tuna fish, corn and chopped olives. Tomatoes stuffed with whole nuts and chopped celery and topped with mayonnaise dressing. Hard-boiled eggs, boiled beets sliced, watercress and French dressing. Cold cooked meat, chopped diced boiled potatoes, celery, chopped pickle and French dressing. Cooked shrimps, chopped cabbage, capers and mayonnaise. Cold boiled lima beans, corn and French dressing. Large whole beets, hollowed out and stuffed with cream cheese and French dressing. Cold cooked peas, celery, pimientos and mayonnaise.

Right After He Said He Didn't Feel Well and Couldn't Eat Much of the Dinner the June Bride Had Cooked

POP CORN PEANUTS

THE JUNE BRIDEGROOM CAME VERY NEAR BEING CAUGHT IN THE ACT OF DEVOURING A LARGE SACK OF POPCORN.

Six faint blue pines are on the front of this hat and three small rose-colored bows—each having one loop. There are also a few blades of grass at each bow. The facing is rose silk, and the hat can be either of white or of pale pink.

Sweet Salads.
In addition, there are a number of rather sweet salads that seem merely dessert, but which have ingredients that make them solidly nutritious. Sliced bananas sprinkled with chopped pecans and served with French dressing in which lemons have been used instead of vinegar. Cherries, sliced oranges and whole walnuts served with whipped cream instead of salad dressing. Sliced apples, pecans and French dressing.

Uncle Wiggily do you think you could find any more today?" asked Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy, as the rabbit gentleman was about to start out for a ride in his automobile one morning.

"More what? More lumps, such as the bad chap yesterday, who tried to eat your shoe buttons?" Mr. Longears asked his muskrat lady housekeeper, who stood on the steps of his hollow stump bungalow.

"No, indeed," laughed Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy. "But could you find more blackberries, such as the ones with which you fooled the Doozie?"

"Well, I could try," spoke Uncle Wiggily. "I'll look for a ride, and on my way, I'll look for some more blackberries. They certainly make nice jam tarts." "Glad you like them," said Nurse Jane.

The rabbit gentleman rode off in his auto, and the muskrat lady housekeeper went in the bungalow to see if the stock had washed the face, and it had. I am glad to hear, also its hands.

Uncle Wiggily rode on and on over the fields and through the woods, and pretty soon he came to a bush on which grew some lovely red raspberries.

"Hum! Well, these aren't black. But I think they will do just as well for jam tarts," said Uncle Wiggily to himself. "I must taste them to see if they are all right."

Fabrics and other things that live in the woods can tell at once when berries are good to eat, or when they are not. So the ones and girls cannot always do this. So if you are ever in the woods, and see some berries, on trees or bushes, or purple berries, on trees or bushes, don't eat them unless some one who knows is sure they are not poison.

As soon as Uncle Wiggily had tasted the red berries on the bush he knew they were all right and good to eat, so he picked a lot, putting them in a basket he made or some bark from the birch tree.

These red raspberries will make even better tarts than did the black ones," thought the rabbit gentleman, as he rode along in his auto.

He had not gone very far, after picking the berries, before all of a sudden he saw a little red fox in the woods. And from an open window of the house came the sound of crying.

"My! There must be trouble here," thought Uncle Wiggily. "This is where Sammie and Susie Littletail live. I must see what the matter is."

He stopped his auto, with the raspberries in it, and went up the steps of the little house to see Mrs. Littletail, the rabbit lady.

"Oh, Uncle Wiggily, I'm so glad you came," said Mrs. Littletail. "Susie is ill, and Dr. Possum says she must have some red raspberries. I must see what the matter is."

COURT RELEASES DEITZ JURORS

SPOKANE, Wash., June 26.—The jury in the United States district court here, which heard the evidence in the trial of William H. (Lone Star) Dietz on charges of false registration for the draft and falsification of his draft questionnaire, was discharged by Judge F. H. Rudkin at 10 a. m. today after it had reported its inability to reach a verdict.

FLYER WOOS AND WINS MAID IN 9 DAYS' TIME

HAYS, Kas., June 25.—Lieutenant Warren P. Kite and his bride today held all aeroplane marriage records.

Lieutenant Kite, former instructor at Kelley Field, wooed and won Miss Orpha Jane Arnold of Larned, Kas., in nine days—by airplane.

They met at Larned yesterday, flew to Hays, seventy-five miles away, in less than an hour, and were married ten minutes later. Their honeymoon began the air when the flyways sped home for the parental blessing.

GREAT MERCHANT FLEET PICTURED

Rosette pictures of a mighty merchant marine flying the American flag were drawn today by John H. Rosseter, director of operations of the Emergency Fleet corporation, who has returned to San Francisco from Washington, D. C., after long and strenuous service in readjusting the shipping of the nation to peace conditions.

Reconstruction of shipbuilding contracts on the Pacific coast is likely, according to Rosseter, who said that this is the desire of President Hurd of the shipping board. He declared his willingness to meet shipbuilding interests of San Francisco bay shortly after July 1, when he will return from a short vacation trip.

"I am still very friendly to shipbuilding on the Pacific coast," he said, "and believe we can build a merchant marine in America, with the Pacific coast doing its share, in competition with England or any other country where they build ships."

William Farnum Narrowly Escapes Sudden Death

WILLIAM FARNUM

Famous Romantic Actor Figures in Thrilling Adventure That Is Not Part of Film Drama

During the filming of the William Farnum production, "The Lone Star Ranger," the picture of a Texas Ranger, the director of the film, who appears in the leading role, actually escaped death by even a narrow margin.

It came about in this way: During the action of the drama, a terrific fight is staged between "Steele," an avenging Texas Ranger (William Farnum) and "Bully" Boone, a cattle rustler. This scene was being rehearsed on the location chosen for its filming—a wild, picturesque spot in the Southwest—and the only spectator present, in addition to the performers, director and camera men, was an old man who had strangely and unexpectedly appeared upon the scene. His silent approach had been unobserved. From whence he came is still a mystery. This peculiar individual was a tall and gaunt, but deeply lined, weather-beaten face giving unmistakable evidence of long years of exposure to the sun and wind of the desert. Through a hole in the top of a dilapidated, broad-brimmed hat protruded a tuft of unkempt, rust-colored hair. His dark, deep-set eyes were as keen as those of a vulture. His clothes and boots were tattered and dirty, and at his hip was swung a long-barreled six-shooter of ancient model.

All attention was drawn to him by the director as he stepped forward and the work at hand occupied the attention of all the film folk, the old man was soon forgotten.

It was not until the director came to the scene where the ranger and rustler engage in desperate combat. The director was shouting his instructions; the camera men were grinding merrily away; the Texas Ranger had beaten the rustler to the draw and had shot his enemy through and through. Suddenly, the strange old man let out a wild whoop and with a movement quick as lightning drew his battle-scarred cannon from his holster, fired one shot at Farnum and with a demoniac yell, took to his heels and, running like mad, soon disappeared in a cloud of dust kicked up by his flying feet.

Fortunately, the bullet did no more serious damage than to tear through the collar of Farnum'sannel shirt and imbedded itself in a nearby "chuck" wagon.

The filming of "The Lone Star Ranger" was completed without further exciting incident, and will be presented at the American Theater for one week, commencing with the matinee next Sunday—Advt.

POISON OAK OR IVY NO LONGER TO BE DREADED

ANYONE who has ever experienced the pain and irritation of poison oak or ivy poisoning will be grateful to know that this extremely painful and irritating annoyance need not be feared, or longer remain troublesome. The pain, itching, fever and irritation disappear almost like magic with a few applications of Santeptic Lotion, and the eruptions and redness of the skin soon follow. Timely use of Santeptic will even prevent the poisoning in many cases.

"Santeptic Lotion is the greatest remedy on earth for poison oak," says Carl Larson of Canbyville, Ore. "I have had it in all forms—on the face, arms and body. Nothing gave me relief until I tried Santeptic. I would not now be without Santeptic in my home."

Mr. Larson's experience is but typical of thousands of others who have had the misfortune to become infected with poison oak or ivy.

Santeptic also heals other skin irritations, such as sunburn, windburn, chafing, fever and cold sores, and other insect bites. It is a remarkable soothing and healing lotion. Men use it after shaving and women for the complexion and for the baby's skin.

Santeptic is easily procured at most drug stores. If your druggist cannot supply it, send 50 cents, with his name to the Esbencott Laboratories, Portland, Ore., for full-sized bottle, postpaid. Advertisement.

FIRE CAPTAIN FISHES IN MUD FOR LOST WATCH

If you were a fireman—And you saved a rich woman's red parrot—And she gave you a watch as a token of her gratitude—And the watch fell into the estuary, while you were fighting a fire in a lumber yard—Then wouldn't you be busy fishing for the lost timepiece with two forked sticks. Just as Fire Captain William Rankin, of Engine No. 1, is doing today?

Well, that's what the captain's doing.

Captain Rankin was fighting a fire on the Sunset property when he brushed against some boards, and his watch fell from his pocket into the water. The timepiece was presented to him some years ago as a reward for saving a red parrot of extended vocabulary and great value. He hopes to get it back, if he keeps fishing in the ooze.

Fruitvale Woodmen Will Go On Picnic

THE SOLDIER'S JOB.

There are some things that are unpleasant, but nevertheless it is often becoming that we look upon them frankly. The attitude which most employers take regarding the matter of giving returning soldiers their old jobs or some job equally as good is proper and praiseworthy. But there are some employers that are not taking the right attitude, nor acting squarely in their dealings with ex-soldiers.

THE TRIBUNE has direct knowledge of three cases. They cover different lines of business and are typical of reports of other cases that have been heard but not absolutely verified.

Case No. 1. The returned soldier, remembering the promise given him when he joined the service, came home from nearly two years' duty overseas and went to his former employer and asked for work. After being put off with transparent excuses for two weeks, he was sent to the manager of a similar business and offered, not the same kind of work in which he had been trained, but a position as solicitor for memberships in an association of dealers, without a fixed salary but on a commission basis.

Case No. 2. A returned soldier of two years' military service applied and was given a job in a shipyard. After two weeks' employment he was laid off indefinitely, on the ground that the plant had to lay off workers and were discharging those that had been employed last. This may be an excusable rule of a large industrial concern when rules only are considered. But when the human factor is considered, it must be recalled that a lot of prizefighters and other able-bodied athletes went into the shipyards to escape military duty and thus achieved the advantage of being employed longer than the man who went overseas to fight for his country.

Case No. 3. A returned soldier applied for his old job in an electrical concern. The response he got was a statement by the manager that during the two years he had been away (fighting for his country and the men who remained at home) a lot of progress had been made in the electrical industry and that the company was afraid the soldier could not any longer perform his old duties.

These three cases are instances of dishonest and unparitric dealings on the part of employers. The returned soldiers were not given a square deal. They are entitled to a square deal. There may be a perfectly good reason for some business or industry not to employ an ex-soldier, some reason other than the fact that he was absent for two years in the service of his country. But there is no reason for the employer to practice hypocrisy and indulge in falsehood. The soldier is no fool and he is no longer a boy. He can comprehend the truth and reason from facts.

If you have a job for him give it to him; if you have not, let him know the truth. To do otherwise is indecent and dangerous.

ARID LANDS.

California farmers and small land owners who have been trying for many years to have enacted laws under which irrigation of the arid lands might be extended and more soil brought under cultivation are not through with their troubles yet. They are facing another fight in which the opponents of the irrigationists are expecting the people to pass judgment.

At the last session of the legislature the Irwin bill, Senate bill No. 433, was enacted into law by an almost unanimous vote. It amends the Irrigation District Act and will become effective July 21st. It is claimed that under this law thousands of arid acres will be brought under irrigation and cultivation, thus adding to the production of the State and to the benefits of all the people.

But the large land owners object, as usual, to the law going into effect. They believe it will mean cutting up and development of some of their holdings. Hence they are circulating a referendum petition by which it is sought to submit the Irwin act to a vote of the people. By this maneuver they would hold up the operation of the law until the next general election, nearly two years.

Both the advocates and the opponents of the irrigation act may be able to present a good case—from the standpoint of their respective special interests. But to people at large any project for bringing arid land under cultivation appeals with great force. And any law that provides a means by which water may be stored and turned on to idle land is sound in principle and will be almost certainly beneficial in application. The people of the urban districts will make no mistake by forming their judgment of the referendum move on the broad principle that development is desirable.

THE COLOMBIAN TREATY.

At last there is some prospect that the treaty between the United States and the Republic of Colombia, designed to close the dispute between the two countries over the Panama affair, will be approved. It has been so modified, with Colombia's consent, that it is acceptable in principle to the majority of both Republicans and Democrats; an agreement on the amount to be paid the Colombian government is the only matter in the way of the Senate's consent to ratification.

This treaty has been pending for twelve years, being first considered during the administration of President Roosevelt. As originally drafted it provided that the United States pay Colombia $25,000,000 for the canal rights in Panama, and at the same time apologize for the procedure in which those rights were obtained. This claim was put in after Panama, by an overnight revolution against the government of Colombia, set up its own government and yielded rights on the isthmus to the United States. Colombia has always claimed that this country practically confiscated the land through which the canal was built. She demanded payment of gold and an apology.

Past opposition to the treaty has been based, not on the money payment proposed, but on the belief that no apology is due Colombia and the determination of the Republican senators not to suffer an apology to be made. There seems to be pretty general agreement that Colombia is entitled to compensation for loss of territory and for the relinquishment of the responsibilities of the people of Panama to the Colombian government. Differences on this point have been due to the indefinite manner in which the damages claimed to have been sustained have been estimated.

On this point Colombia has exhibited a varying opinion. She originally demanded $25,000,000, with an apology. When the Senate first rejected the apology feature the bill was reduced to $15,000,000, apparently in the belief that the Senate would place a cash value on the principle involved in the apology and agree to confess wrong-doing for the difference of $10,000,000. In this respect the politicians at Bogota were disappointed. Now the demand for an apology is withdrawn, but the claim for compensation is boosted to the original $25,000,000. This shows in a striking manner the difference in moral valuation in Colombia and in this country.

If Colombia was willing to accept $15,000,000 with an apology, she should be obliged to accept the same settlement without one for an apology will never be tendered. The latter question should never have been seriously considered at Washington. That it was so considered, and even made the subject of a preliminary agreement between the Secretary of State (then Mr. William J. Bryan) and the Colombian minister, was solely due to a desire on the part of Democratic politicians at Washington to discredit former President Roosevelt and the great work of constructing the Panama canal. Payment of $10,000,000 more than was once demanded for the Panama claims of Colombia would still be submitting to blackmail and suffering an imputation against the honor and good name of the United States.

HEADLESS GOVERNMENT AGAIN.

Administration of the new federal child labor law has been assumed by the bureau of internal revenue. The bureau of internal revenue is not in the slightest degree familiar with child labor. It exists in a department—the Treasury Department—which has nothing to do with labor problems. But the new child labor law is technically a revenue law. The bureau of internal revenue thereupon sees an opportunity for expansion. It undertakes to enforce the new law, and it supplants the children's bureau of the Labor Department in the very field in which the children's bureau has been specializing for six years.

For six years the children's bureau has been studying the intricacies of the employment of children and of the administration of child labor laws in all the States of the union. For six years it has been accumulating an expert knowledge and an expert staff not to be found elsewhere in the government. The President intended that the children's bureau should enforce the new law. So did Congress. But the letter of the law transferred the enforcement of internal revenue to assume the task, and now the children's bureau must either duplicate the work of the bureau of internal revenue or else retire from the most important development of its own work.

Again we see the consequences of headlessness in governmental organization. The President was away, but even if he had been here he would have been engaged in making speeches and gaining votes for the League of Nations and the peace treaty. The cabinet would have "conferred." What is needed is a board of directors that can command. At present the various departments can fight over new laws and old laws and new jobs and old jobs like a flock of hens over a worm. Incidentally, it is to be remembered that the head of the children's bureau is Julia Lathrop. She is one of the most distinguished persons in America and one of the shrewdest and wisest. But she is a woman. She is cordially permitted to "investigate" child labor. But when investigation goes on into enforcement, when spectatorship goes on into action, she is supplanted.

NOTES and COMMENT

When it came to placing a ban on the private use of liquor Congress balked. Under the provisions of the prohibition enforcement bill, as it leaves the judiciary committee of the House, it is lawful to prepare for the long dry season that is rapidly approaching.

Itay Uker has done a turn for his old friends in Nevada. Now producers of silver may send their bullion to the United States Mint at Carson City and get the exact market price quoted when shipment is received. It is another demonstration of the value of a friend at court.

In a spirit of revenge the Germans have burned the historic battle flags of 1870, which is another violation of the peace treaty. The scuttling of the ships, coupled with this latest outrage, shows that the Prussians are running true to form up to the very last.

Senator Poindexter urges a firm policy in our dealings with Mexico. If anything would have accomplished anything the policy of the United States today would be as firm as the rock of Gibraltar, but, unfortunately, all the exhorting and importuning has been without result except for a single day of recent memory.

When a Stockton hotel man was confronted with three love letters which dropped from his pocket, he laughed at his wife and remarked he had "lots more to show." The wife was granted a divorce, custody of a minor child and a portion of the factious husband's property, all of which demonstrates that "She (in this particular instance) who laughs last laughs best."

With a high luxury tax on bridal veils, the local couple who utilized Bridal Veil Falls in the Yosemite Valley as a substitute were resourceful, economical and probably as well satisfied.

The lad in the Letterman hospital with both legs and several fingers gone, who is still smiling and happy, should be an example to every grocer.

Al Jolson's comedy is evidently not appreciated at home, for his wife—applying for a divorce—declares that she was never theatrical herself and fails to appreciate humor. However, she appears to be a good business woman, for she asks for $200 per month, which is a joke on Al if she gets it.

Twenty dollars a ton is being offered through the county agent's office for good tree moss delivered at Toledo. The moss must be free from dirt and heavy bark, dried and baled either on the premises or hauled to Toledo and baled at the warehouse of the former Warren Spruce Company, the present receiving station for the moss. R. W. Stow of Mountmouth is the purchaser and is expected to be able to take from ten to fifteen carloads from Toledo and vicinity.—Portland Oregonian.

SPIRIT OF THE STATE PRESS

Sutter county is willing to pay college students 45 cents an hour to work in the harvest fields, but they have got to promise not to strike, but to stick to the man who first engages them. Tyranny, that's what. But who ever saw a university student who wouldn't work his head off for 45 cents an hour if it is going to help him to "go back" next year.—Stockton Record.

Sacramento lawyers are going to increase their fees. The new schedule, which goes into effect July 1, increases the cost of getting a divorce in the capital city. Divorces are considered a necessity by the people involved, so why shouldn't the lawyers "get the money"?—Modesto News.

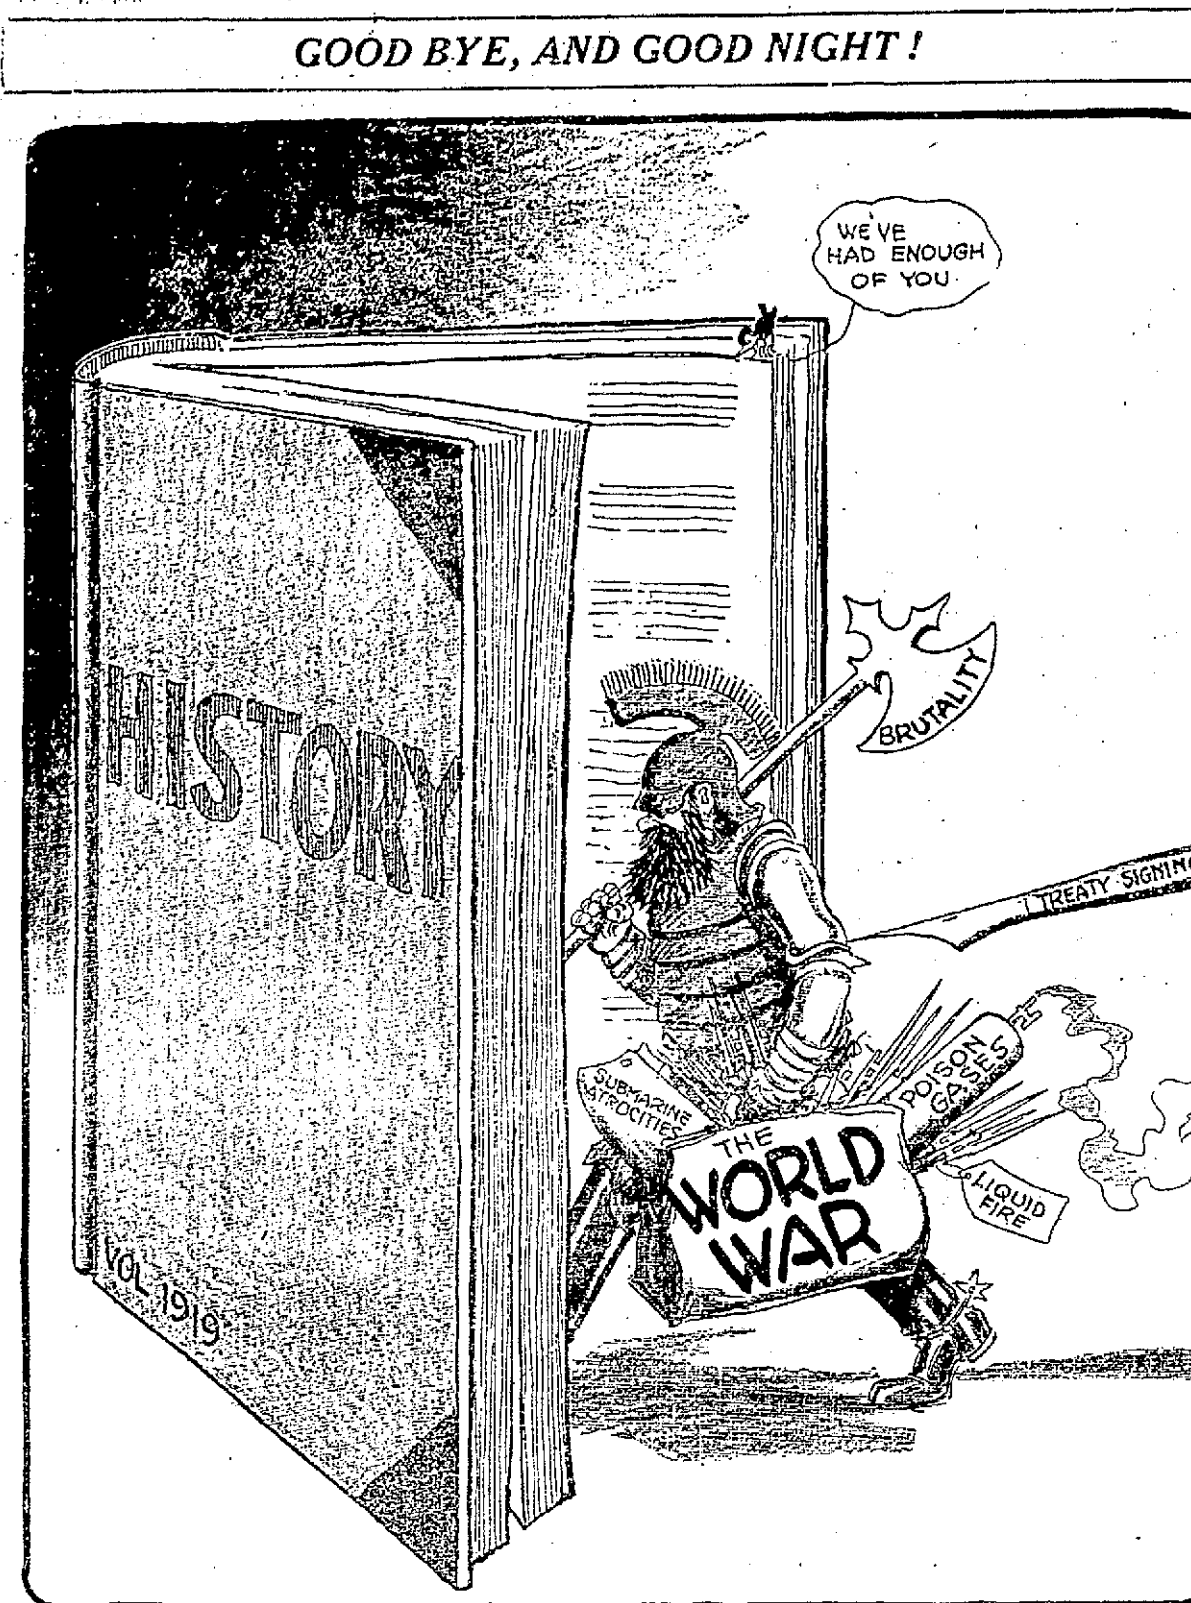

The flivver record for the run between Jamaica and El Centro has been captured by Elton Christian, according to the party of well-known young men who made the ride with him yesterday evening. Christian, a local resident, was forth by these individuals the run was made in 1 hour and 32 minutes, including necessary stops. Those who hung on by main strength while the flivver driver negotiated the narrow roads and sharp corners were Don McKay, Leonard Clark and Robert Prettymann.—Holtville Tribune.

It is not too soon to begin planning the program for the Fourth, but the lifting of protective ordinances should not be a part of the program. Leading citizens and town authorities should see to it that any tendency toward the old-fashioned celebration is checked early, and that public enthusiasm and energy are turned toward a program that will be patriotic, healthful, safe and truly enjoyable.—Marysville Appeal.

With several hundred replies received from readers of this paper, it develops that the sentiment of the people of Kern almost solidly endorsed the repeal of the daylight saving law. Out of some forty replies received in the mail on Sunday morning, only one reader favored the law, and he resides outside the county. From the rural routes, the mountains, and the city, the vote was unanimously against the measure. At Cameron it appears that all the readers affixed their names to the "no" column, using several sheets of paper to an using several sheets of paper to carry the list. Truly the daylight saving law has mighty few friends in Kern county, and from the tenor of some of the letters accompanying the coupons, congressional action repealing the bill finds practically an unanimous support.—Bakersfield Californian.

FOR AN AMBULANCE.

To the Editor of The Tribune:

Your very excellent editorial on the 23d, relative to the ambulance is very pleasing to our order, the Loyal Order of Moose, No. 324 of Oakland, for the very simple reason that a committee composed of A. H. Moffett as chairman and the dictator, I. H. Spira, were to appear before the council and urge this matter.

We will be very pleased to assist you in any way that is possible to further your suggestion, as it has met with great favor in all fraternal and union organizations in our city.

Knowing full well your very enterprising paper is in the forefront ranks for progress, we beg to remain, yours very truly,

A WORD TO "WELCHERS."

When some tender-hearted soul spoke to, Pascal about the necessity of treating criminals humanely, that good Christian and good philosopher retorted with the question, "Why don't the assassins begin?"

Prince Max of Baden, who, after the fall of Wilhelm II was for a while German chancellor, but who is more famous as having been the original hero of the Viennese comic opera, "The Merry Widow," is the latest Teuton to be horrified at the cruelty of the allies to the Fatherland.

It is useless to remind any German of anything. But it might be well to recall, for the sake of our own sentimentalists and let-us-have-peace fanatics, one of the clearest and most concise statements of policy made by the spokesmen of any nation in a hundred years.

One of the chapters of the infamous General Bernhardi's book, "Germany and the Next War," published a short time before 1914—was headed "World Power or Downfall" (Weltmacht oder Niedergang?). It is necessary to use the original repulsive as any quotation in the discredited language still is!

On page 106 of the English translation of the same instructive volume the soldier-theorist says: "France must be so completely crushed that she can never again come across our (German) path."

That meant the destruction of a race, root and branch—according to a policy of thoroughness! For fear that there might be any doubt as to his theory the general amplifies it on page 165: "This time we must resolve on an absolute conquest in order to capture the French naval ports and destroy the French naval depots. It would be a war to the knife with France; one which would, if victorious, annihilate the French people as a great power."

Naturally. "There are going to be big profits in the coffee business." "Well, that is one industry which ought to be in a settled condition."—Baltimore American.

HEALTH and HAPPINESS

(Johns Hopkins University.)
BY DR. LEONARD K. HIRSHBERG
A. B., M. A., M. D.

These several things are an abomination unto your anatomy: Pain, soreness, ugliness, deformity, misshapen flesh, irritability, discomfort, restlessness and loss of sleep are physical misdoings any one of which would suffice you with the other "dear charmer" away.

Boils are the guilty authors of one and all of such symptoms. Painful, angry, swollen hills of unhealed tissue—that is the truth about boils. Especially painful and inconvenient are these erupting volcanoes of human lava when located upon the nape of the neck.

Why, you ask, do boils and carbuncles have a penchant for the nape of the neck? The explanation is not far to seek. Upon the skin there the pores are large, open, tender and not weather-toughened. Short and long hairs abound as landmarks and guide-strings along which germs and bacteria find their way to the tempting morsel of stuff in the surface fabric which feeds and delights them.

When the tissues are overladen with sugars, starches and sweets the bacteria of the air and water, called staphylococci and streptococci, make their way thither and begin to flourish like green bay trees.

Bacteria, after all, are nothing but minute, microscopically small vegetation. They grow and multiply over the area invaded, replenish and feed themselves at the expense of the nourishment contained in the blood and other textures.

The vanguard of human defenders, the white corpuscles, rush into the fray and give battle to the invaders. Pain, heat and devastation of the flesh is the result.

The battleground on the back of the neck becomes like a mound, called a boil or carbuncle, according to its size and viciousness. Its contents is the debris and damage left. Wounded, dead and injured crusaders and invaders, maimed warriors of the bacterial hosts and the defenders strewn the field.

The matter in a boil is alive with hungry cocci. It is therefore, a menace to tough, healthy skin, wherever it touches.

This tells you why boils often come in crops, the contents of the first ripe one, when it opens, comes in contact with other areas, and the mischief spreads sometimes like a prairie fire.

The popular notion that these trouble-makers are more prone to assail you in the spring than at other times is occasionally supported by the fact that berries, sweets and other rich pastures begin to be marketed in abundance.

However that may be, if soiled linen and collars, unwashed hands and unsterilized objects come in contact with the skin infection may be spread. This, as well as too much rich eating, may be the source of boils at any time, summer or winter.

As a means of avoiding boils have the back of your neck shaved with a sterilized razor. The skin in turn should be disinfected with a good lotion, such as white precipitate ointment, which also serves to increase its resistance.

SAYS WEST IS CONVERTED TO PAPER MONEY

Ray Baker, director of the United States mint, who arrived in Oakland late yesterday to visit his sister, Mrs. J. D. Grissom, 105 Mountain avenue, Piedmont, lost no time in ordering the San Francisco mint placed on a 24-hour basis coining nothing but one-cent pieces. He declared that the government is making no mistake in adopting a "penny war" policy, due to the demand for "coppers" and that now every mint in the country is turning them out exclusively. The mints are now making 100,000,000 pennies a month, he said, but still the supply is short, due to the odd-cent prices caused by the taxes provided under the new revenue law. Already 2,500,000,000 have been coined.

DISAPPEAR QUICKLY.

"It's hard to say where they all go to," said Baker, "but they certainly do disappear when they are into coining. Of course, there are the children's savings banks. I have made an appeal that the children take their pennies out of the banks and invest them in war savings stamps."

"Especially in the Western cities I notice the large number of tin cans and bottles placed about by charitable organizations appealing for aid, in the way of one five or ten cent pieces. I venture to say there are 100,000 such bottles and cans. I have decided to ask the various organizations to collect them, and to use them to collect the money will be put back into circulation."

GOLD WILL NOT COME BACK.

In the opinion of Baker, gold coins will not "come back" in the West. "There is really no necessity of using gold coins," he said. "The people of the West had the habit, that is all, and there was more gold in general circulation in the Western states than there is in all the Eastern states. A large amount of gold has been gathered into the reserve banks. Since the lifting of the embargo on the export of gold there ought to be no difficulty in getting it if one desires; but now that the West is becoming used to greenbacks it probably will not want to change."

HE SAID THAT THE SAN FRANCISCO MINT HAS DONE AN EXCEEDINGLY HEAVY BUSINESS IN THE LAST YEAR, AND OF 200,000,000 COINS OF SILVER SENT TO INDIA, THIS MINT EXPORTED ONE-THIRD, BUSINESS OF ALL MINTS INCREASED 200 TO 250 PER CENT DURING THE WAR, HE DECLARED.

He said that the San Francisco mint has done an exceedingly heavy business in the last year, and of 200,000,000 coins of silver sent to India, this mint exported one-third, business of all mints increased 200 to 250 per cent during the war, he declared.

VISIT HERE A WEEK.

Baker will remain in Oakland from a week to ten days, visiting his sister and brother-in-law, Dr. J. D. Grissom. He is accompanied by his mother, Mrs. George W. Baker. Baker was brought up in this city and lived here in the early years of his public career. He was named George W. Baker, and was named after his father, a prominent banker and then became secretary to the ambassador to Russia, rising rapidly to his present position.

Service Men to Get Free Treatment

WASHINGTON, June 26.—Organization of fourteen medical districts where discharged soldiers, sailors and marines who are beneficiaries of the war risk insurance act may obtain necessary treatment was announced today by Surgeon General Ireland. "The districts will be under the supervision of the public health service and a health officer will be named at each headquarters. San Francisco Marine Hospital will cover Arizona, Nevada and California with surgeon John D. Long in charge."

Would-Be Suicide Saved at Hospital

Following a quarrel with his wife, according to the police, Cecil Brown, survivor, residing at 5331 Market street, attempted to commit suicide tonight by taking poison. He was rushed to the receiving hospital here Steward Richards administered in antidote that proved successful. The patient was able to return home after a few hours.

The jingles in The Headlines

By Harve Westgate
Once more the son of Kaiser Bill gets out and hits the grift, for as he runs he hardly knows which way it's best to flit. We've had him yelling "kamered" since Pershing went to bat, and kept the clown Prince wondering just where he's really at. Perhaps old Jack will introduce a blow we never saw, and land newfangled upper-cuts upon Jesse Willard's jaw; but then again it may be Jess who springs a big surprise, and hangs a bunch of wallop on Jack Dempsey's nose and eyes. Hereafter, we'll wait to see what we are choosing friends, regardless of the rocks they've got, or how each tel-tel spends; we'll measure them by pints and quarts which they have stowed away, and made provision for the drouth that now is on the way.

CITY TO OPPOSE ZONE SWITCHING

Information reached the Oakland Chamber of Commerce today from authoritative sources that the United States Railroad Administration is planning to establish zone switching in Oakland, San Francisco and Los Angeles, and immediately the Traffic Bureau took steps to counteract the proposed order. It is the intention of the railroad administration to divide the three cities into districts and to impose charges for the transfer of freight from one zone to another. This system, the Traffic Bureau has estimated, would cost the shippers many thousands of dollars more for freight. At present, Oakland is one large switching district, with a large charge covering the entire zone. In its effort to offset the move of the railroad administration, the Traffic Bureau sent a letter to the City Council and telegrams to Chairman John J. Bach of the House committee on commerce and Congressman J. A. Elston, Senator Hiram W. Johnson, Max Thelen, director of public service, requesting that immediate action be taken to prevent the zone switching order from being put into effect.

Bishop & Bahler, the traffic managers for the Chamber of Commerce, in these requests that the "Railroad Administration is endeavoring arbitrarily to put the matter of zone switching through before the Interstate Commerce Commission, its power of rate-making restored, that the industrial section of Oakland has been built up on uniform switching and that to protect the many factors, there is a city ordinance granting to the Southern Pacific 'rights to certain waterfront property' provided that 'no part of the city' would be discriminated against in favor of another part."

Bank Raiders Steal Cuspidor

Bank robbers were abroad last night. They visited the Elmhurst branch of the Bank of San Leandro, Ninety-sixth avenue and East Fourteenth street. One bronze cuspidor, $20. One porcelain tank, $20. A seat, $5. The bloodhounds were not brought to the scene and the police found no clues.

THREE IS STOLEN.

Three well dressed men brushed against Joseph Kotner of 2420 Linden street, at Fourteenth street, while Kotner was guarding a San Francisco Marine Hospital will cover Arizona, Nevada and California with surgeon John D. Long in charge.

DIAMONDS STOLEN.

Abie Leach, 703 Union Savings bank, today reported to the police a theft at his office, in which the thief got several diamonds, several hundred dollars, and a small sum of cash. The police believe a pass-key was used.

LOVE LETTERS OF ACTOR ARE READ IN COURT

LOS ANGELES, June 26.—More than 150 letters, passed between Earle Rafael Williams, motion picture actor, and Miss Roma Raymond of New York, had been read into the record of the trial of Miss Raymond's suit against Williams for $100,000 breach of promise when court opened today.

One hundred and eight of the letters, full of terms of endearment, were read yesterday as evidence in a fact the allegation that the relations of Miss Raymond and Williams were most familiar. Williams completed his testimony with a philosophical statement that "There are thousands of cases similar to mine," he said after it had been charged that for four years Miss Raymond had borne the relation of wife to him. "When they quit—they quit."

WEDDING IMATERIAL.

"Whether or not a person is married has nothing to do with his or her success on the stage or screen," he declared a little later.

Meanwhile the two women, storm center of the case, sit near each other with various emotions chasing over their faces. Mrs. Williams, formerly Miss Florine Walz of New York, was dressed in a purple knit short coat and purple and white skirt. She maintained, for the most part, a dignified composure, but the contents of the letters seemed to disturb her at times and at several statements of Attorney Gilbert she shook her head in contradiction. Miss Raymond is in mourning for her father, who died a few months ago, and wore a black suit and hat. The reading of the letters continued and several times Williams seemed on the verge of losing his temper.

DENIES CLOTHES SELECTED.

"It is not a fact," said Gilbert, "that during your four years of living with Miss Raymond she selected virtually every stitch of clothes you wore."

"It is not a fact," said Gilbert, "that during your four years of living with Miss Raymond she selected virtually every stitch of clothes you wore."

"I slept in my own room at the hotel."

"Where did Miss Raymond sleep?" "In her room. I never was in her room on that trip."

"Let you had been living with her for some time before that?" "Yes."

A few of the love notes carried by Miss Raymond into the courtroom were addressed "My Darling," "My Dear," "Sweetie," and "Dearest." The letters, it is claimed, date back to 1913 when Miss Raymond alleges, Williams promised to marry her.

Americans Win All Honors in 8-Nation Rifle Competition

LEMANS, Tuesday, June 24.—The Americans made a clean sweep of the honors today in the individual rifle competition of the inter-allied games on the D'Vours Range. American marksmen took the first eighteen places in the matches. The lowest score made by any of the twenty-five American entries landed that rifleman in thirty-fourth place. There were 175 marksmen representing eight nations.

First Sergeant Stanley Smith of Cleveland won the championship with a score of 275 points out of a possible 300 on the international targets. He led the field at all ranges except one.

The first ten competitors and their scores were:

Sergeant Stanley Smith, Cleveland, 275; Gunnery Sergeant V. Henson, Diverson, Illinois, 266; Corporal Richard Titus, Hackensack, New Jersey, 263; Lieutenant Robert W. Smith, Columbus, Ga., 262; Lieutenant Lloyd Spooner, Portland, Oregon, 261; Sergeant Theodore B. Crawley, Philadelphia, 259; Sergeant Leman Gray, Pikesville, Tenn., 259; Corporal Edward B. Stewart, Rudolph, Ohio, 258; Captain Walter A. Meyers, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, 253; Sergeant Leland A. Chienoweth, Sebastopol, Cal., 252.

BRITONS WATCH IRISH LEADER

LONDON, June 26.—Commenting upon the murder of Police Inspector Hunt in Ireland and the reluctance with which the coroner's jury returned a verdict of murder, the Daily Express today declared that it "commends a study of this inquest and these strange proceedings to the Congress of the United States."

The English newspapers are disjunct in the United States of De Valera, head of the Irish "republic," whose appearance in America is expected to be followed by more moves by Irish sympathizers in the American congress.

If de Valera is allowed a free platform we will find Congress recognizing the Irish republic," said the Express. "We urge the need of British propaganda in America. We plead for some consideration by American public opinion. Until Great Britain discovers what Ireland wants we will apply our Monroe doctrine to the Irish question. It must be respected."

The Irish unionists have adopted a resolution supporting the government and denouncing the manifesto of the Irish Catholic bishops, issued from Maynooth, attacking military rule in Ireland.

Rotarians Are Hosts To Their Mothers

Mothers of Rotarians were guests of the Oakland Rotary Club at a luncheon in the main dining room of the Hotel Oakland today and a program in honor of their presence was rendered.

Short talks and several musical numbers were features. Harry B. Vance, Berkeley superintendent of schools, and Judge L. R. Weinmann of Alameda were the principal speakers, and each paid a tribute to the mothers, who numbered several score.

CALIFORNIAN IS WINNER IN PARIS GAMES

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS
LEASD WIRE TO TRIBUNE
PERSHING, STADIUM, France, June 26.—C. W. Paddock of Pasadena, Cal., won first place in the 100-meter final in the inter-allied games here today. Edward Teacher of Lawrence, Mass., was second. Howard of Canada was third. Paddock's time was 11.4 seconds. The American basketball team defeated Italy, 55 to 15. In wrestling Gargano (Italy) defeated Kryskow (America). In the boxing events Egan knocked out Negri (Italy) in the first round.

ELKS TO FIND SOLDIERS JOBS

As a feature of "Rehabilitation Week" all judges of Elks in the district as well as other lodges in Northern California will send representatives to a conference tomorrow night in San Francisco at which Judge E. C. Weinmann, district deputy, will preside.

Getting the discharged disabled service men back into gainful occupation is the aim of "Rehabilitation Week." Plans for permanent organizations to aid this effort will be made. The Federal board for vocational education requested this conference.

Soldiers' Friends committee will be appointed by the Elks in each subordinate lodge, to act with the Federal board in its particular district. The disabled of industry will not be forgotten either, for in a speech to the conference tomorrow, Nicholas Bledard will tell of the government's program for rehabilitating both the wounded soldiers and the crippled laboring men. Nicholas Denver is chairman of the committee on arrangements for the conference.

Drives Auto Into Crowd at Station

A crowd of twenty-five or more passengers getting on and off a train at the Southern Pacific station on Seventh street, were panic stricken, when William T. McAlpine, chauffeur, drove his car into their midst last night.

McAlpine, 4743 East Fourteenth street, and Harry Ward of the American Hotel, were treated at the Receiving Hospital for Incorrections and contagious diseases. Several others in the crowd escaped with slight injuries.

McAlpine is the driver of a telephone company machine, carrying strikebreakers to their homes. He was arrested by Officers H. Teagle and A. Deike and later released on $100 bail on the charge of violating the state motor vehicle act. Police say McAlpine admitted he was driving 25 miles an hour when he ran into the crowd.

ROBBER WHILE ASLEEP.

A pillow slip is not the safest place to secrete a large sum of money, Mrs. Edith Heath of 728 Willow street, learned to her great sorrow today. Before retiring last night, Mrs. Heath had $455 in currency in the slip of her pillow and went to sleep. An early hour she was awakened by a strange noise and went downstairs. She returned, investigated the pillow and found her money gone. Police inspectors Tracy and Sanders, who investigated, are searching for three suspects.

Blazing Trail for Regular Air Service to Center on Oakland

AVIATOR LIEUTENANT JAMES S. KRULL, who flew to Oakland, and two of the welcoming committee. Next to Krull is JOSEPH H. KING, and at the right, OTTO H. FISCHER.

Regular air service into Oakland is now in a fair way to be established, in the opinion of members of the Manufacturers' Bureau of the Oakland Chamber of Commerce. The way is considered as having been pioneered by Lieutenant James S. Krull, army flyer from Mather field, Sacramento, who spoke to the manufacturers at their weekly luncheon yesterday, pointing out what should be done to establish scheduled flights of airplanes to this city.

Following Lieutenant Krull's talk, an inspection of landing fields, was made by a committee consisting of O. H. Fischer, manufacturer of the Union engine used in the navy "ships"; Postmaster Joseph J. Ross, who is interested in mail delivery by air; Rex Midgely of the American theater, who has lately taken up photography from the air; Joseph H. King, amateur aviator, and George E. Stueland, one of the directors of the chamber.

TWO SITES AVAILABLE.

The committee agreed that the Auditorium site already selected by the City Interests Committee of the chamber and back by Mayor Davis is the best. In the interim of preparing that field by filling and grading, the Alameda marsh to the west of the beach, which is now a decided, should be recommended to aviators for a landing place. Lieutenant Krull, as an expert, said that both sites were admirable.

The lieutenant, in his talk at the luncheon, urged every city and town in the country to join in the establishment of stations on air highways. He pointed out that not only were such landing places necessary for regular flights, but that emergency landing places must be provided in the event that an aviator's motor "goes dead" while in the air. Krull explained that at present, in such emergencies, landings must be made in fields, which causes a loss of hours on a trip, due to telephoning for mechanics to make repairs or for oil men to deliver gasoline. Such delays would be obviated, he said, by establishing landing places with oil and repair stations at hand.

TELETYPE YOSEMITE FLIGHT.
Interior California, from Redding to Bakersfield, is the ideal flying district, Krull told the manufacturers. But north and south of that section mountains are encountered, which interfere with the safest sort of aviation.

He described his flight into the Yosemite on May 12, saying he was compelled to rise to a height of 11,000 feet to clear the mountains and tree tops. He also urged speeding up on lists in the air service, which is in need of 15,000 mechanics, who will be graduated into fliers. Among the craftsmen needed, he said, are tailors and plumbers.

Krull was met at the Albany field by a special committee of 25 manufacturers. They were given a concrete instance of the need of a landing field in Oakland, for though it took the lieutenant only one hour to fly from Sacramento, it required an equal amount of time to bring him by automobile to the Hotel Oakland, a distance of only about six miles.

The California Peach Growers have announced a new grade peach for this season known as the "bakers' special," with an opening price of 17 1/2 cents a pound.

SALE OF U.S. SHIPS SCORED BY FLETCHER

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Sale of government merchant ships to private interests recommended to Congress recently by Chairman Hurley of the Shipping Board, was opposed by Senator Fletcher of Florida, ranking Democrat and former chairman of the Senate Commerce committee, in an address to the Senate on shipping legislation. An indeterminate policy of government operation of the new merchant fleet, either by the government itself or through private corporations chartered or controlled by the government, was advocated by Mr. Fletcher as a means of preserving the government's shipping enterprises established at great expense and now showing large profits in operations.

Cancellation of shipbuilding contracts, Mr. Fletcher said, will cause a loss of about $50 million. He said the same bottom can be operated with much profit and, he added, rates will continue high for a considerable time, although lower than the war-time rates. Sale of the government's ships to private persons, Senator Fletcher predicted, would mean transfer of many to foreign registry.

Mr. Fletcher deplored the alleged prejudice against wooden ships and declared many built by the government are operating profitably. He also declared the concrete hull ships are proving successful.

STRIKERS MAY CUT OFF CHICAGO WATER SUPPLY

CHICAGO, June 25.—Unless the city council takes favorable action on demands for increased wages made by pumping station and fire apparatus engineers, Chicago is threatened with a strike which the next 24 hours which will deprive the city of water and fire protection. The engineers have declared they will go on strike tomorrow noon unless their demands are granted.

Eighteen hundred teamsters employed by the city and a large number of chauffeurs joined today in the strike of approximately 4000 employees of the street department who walked out Monday.

Members of the police department and fire department were granted wage increases by the council financial committee late yesterday.

Owen Moore Starred in Rex Beach Play at the American

OWEN MOORE, a favorite among motion picture devotees, in one of the most impressive scenes from Rex Beach's thrilling drama of mystery and adventure, "The Crimson Gardenia," which is being featured at the American Theater this week.

Never have the elements of mystery, romance and adventure been more deftly woven into a play than in Rex Beach's thrilling drama, "The Crimson Gardenia," which is now being presented at the American Theater. Rarely does a screen production possess the power to sway the emotions of an audience—to hold the spectator in breathless suspense—to fascinate the beholder as does this swift moving drama of stirring action and exciting scenes.

Owen Moore, the dashing and magnetic young golden star, appears in the leading role and is given brilliant support by Hedda Nova, the beautiful and talented emotional actress, and a cast of extraordinary ability. A clever comedy romance, "A Stitch in Time," starring Gladys Leslie, and a Pathe News Weekly are additional features of the picture program.

John Wherry Lewis' orchestra play interpretative musical scores in their usual delectable manner. The performances Saturday night will terminate this engagement and commence with the motion picture "The Crimson Gardenia" on Sunday. William Farnum will open a week's engagement in Zane Grey's stirring story of the southwest, "The Lone Star Ranger," a magnificent
